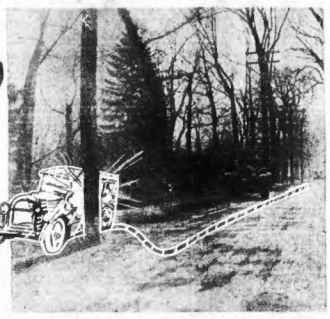
WHERE THUGS ARE PASSE; HOW ONE, COMING TO GRIEF UNDER FIRE, LOST HIS LOOT

Officer Joseph J. Dalton emptied his revolver at the thugs in the auto just like this. It was too much excitement for the thugs and they wrecked their car and lost their loot.

This is the "hero cop" of Milton, Officer Joseph J. Dalton, nemesis of thugs.



This is how the thugs' car came to grief under fire. It was wrecked in the crash with the pole after a mad chase.
STORY ON PAGE 2.

Here's a close-up of the wrecked bandit-car. It is in such shape that it will never be in another robbery.

The recovered loot and three Milton officers who will "shoot to kill." Left to right, John A. Chamberlain, Joseph J. Dalton and William H. Burns.

BOK PROPAGANDA FOR COURT IN BAY STATE IS REVEALED

Washington, Jan. 21.—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, resuming his battle against the World Court, today disclosed to the Senate that the wealth of Edward W. Bok is being utilized in Massachusetts for propaganda in favor of the court.

"I think numerous members of this body ought to be warned of their impending fate," he said. "They are to be deluged with more propaganda from Edward W. Bok's paid agents."

"This is a paid lobby," said Senator Reed. "It is just as obnoxious a lobby as the Sugar Trust ever had in Washington. It is just as obnoxious a lobby as the Steel Trust ever had in Washington."

He read a letter written by Father W. Blake, member in charge of the Bok peace prize organization, to another agent in Massachusetts, directing that as many telegrams as possible be sent to the Senators from Massachusetts in support of early action on the court.

Senator Reed resumed his speech following a failure to get an agreement for definite dates to vote on either the tax reduction bill or the World Court. Thereupon proponents of the court served notice today they would hold it continuously before the Senate until a roll call was secured.

Negotiations for an agreement to set February 10 for a vote on the revenue bill, and ten days later for final action on the court collapsed at least temporarily, when opponents of the tax bill notified leaders they would not accept a definite date. Opponents of the World Court countered that they would agree to no time for voting on the court.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, in charge of the tax bill, said the Senate must act if the proposed tax reduction is to affect the March 15 tax payments. After passage it must go to conference and then be approved again in the House and Senate.

Senator Reed got into an argument with Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, as to whether the

Haverhill, Jan. 21.—Two disastrous fires occurred in this city today and at the height of one of them, taking advantage of the confusion, automobile thugs ransacked a clothing store and took $500 worth of merchandise.

Four firemen were overcome by gas fumes, another was injured by falling debris, a 70-year-old woman invalid was rescued and 50 persons fled for their lives as flames caused damage of $175,000 in the Academy of Music and an apartment house at Merrimack and Pecker streets.

A company of firemen narrowly escaped death when the theatre roof collapsed. They leaped to safety on adjoining roofs.

Total damage in this fire and another that destroyed the Masters &

Shoe Company plant, Hilldale avenue, was estimated at $250,000. The second fire occurred while all available apparatus in the city was

(Copyright, 1926, by the Star Company)

AT THE Pacific Coast Theological Society conference Professor Kofold, head of the zoology department of the University of California, yesterday told three hundred clergymen that in some ways the higher apes are superior to man, and the descendants of some sort of ape.

The clergymen all listened politely and in silence. At the end of the monkey descent lecture they sang in sweet unison, "How Firm a Foundation," and let that be their answer to the evolution theory.

Wise clergymen, to let the other man talk, and say what he thinks. Then you say or sing what you think, everybody is happy and the right to free speech is upheld.

JOHN HULBERT killed 140 human beings, his total profit on the killings being $21,000. His line is not that of the ordinary holdup man, for he is Sing Sing's public executioner, and each time he straps a man into the chair the State pays $120. It seems easy, $150 for work that lasts half an hour. But killing causes strain on the nerves, so Mr. Hulbert retires. Someone else can have the $150 job.

MEN OF OTHER DAYS were made of tougher fibre.

The beautiful red-haired girl who taught Heine the poems about her father's sword, when she was 16 and Heine was in love with her, was the daughter of a public killer, who never wearied of his work. Executioners and their victims are not what they were.

The latter want drugs to quiet them before they are killed. The old type of murderer wanted all his energy to curse the executioner and the crowd. Read about Ravaillac.

HARNESSING for power and irrigation the waters of the Colorado River seems assured, and will reflect upon the administration of President Coolidge, and all those identified with it, glory and public gratitude.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY HEADLESS, LEGLESS

Media, Pa., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—The body of a young woman from which the head and legs had been cut was found today in a timber plot. The body, wrapped in a blue cloak and covered by newspapers, was also covered about twenty feet from the road.

The cloak and a wrist watch are the chief clews to the victim's identity. The legs had been severed above the knees.

The legs, clad in silk stockings were found near the body. The newspapers covering the body were of yesterday's date.

A preliminary examination by the police indicated that the woman was in her twenties.

LEGINSKA, PIANIST, DISAPPEARS IN WEST

Ethel Leginska is missing again! Alarmed concert managers, interested in finding her, think she may be en route incognito to Boston, for on two previous occasions when she walked out on New York audiences she was discovered in seclusion here.

The famous English pianist failed to appear at a concert she was to have given in Evansville, Ind., although she registered and took a room at an Evansville hotel.

Her manager, S. E. MacMillan, has cancelled her engagements. She was to have gone from Evansville to Montgomery, Ala.

She disappeared for two weeks in the midst of a concert series in New York just a year ago and was found in Malden, recuperating from a nervous breakdown. In October she dropped from sight again as an audience gathered to hear her play and was found in Boston at No. 95 St. Botolph street. In November she disappointed an audience at the Biltmore, in New York, sending word she was ill at her apartment.

While in Boston, last Fall, conducting the Peoples' Symphony Orchestra, Leginska spent much of her time with the Malden woman at whose house she was found after her first disappearance. This friend said today she had received no word of the pianist's coming here.

NICHOLS CALLS PARKING TAX PARLEY

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols plans to impose an annual tax of from $5 to $10 for parking privileges within the limits of the city was discussed at a meeting of the Mayor with leading merchants and business men in the quarters of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

Among those present besides the conferees were George H. Adams, chairman of the Board of Aldermen; chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on municipal and metropolitan affairs; Edward Lecliair, chairman of the subcommittee on street traffic of the Chamber, and Thomas F. Swanton, member of the Road Trade Board.

A public meeting on the matter is scheduled for the Mayor's office at 10 o'clock in the office of the street commissioner.

Auto owners, garage men and owners of paid parking lots are on the agenda, especially with the suggestion of Mayor Nichols.

MOTOR CLUB ACTS.

The Boston Motor Club drafted the following statement at an emergency meeting of the board of governors called by President Miner H. Paddock, Jr.:

"We consider the proposed plan for charging a fee for the privilege of parking an automobile in the streets of Boston an imposition on the rights of the citizens of this community. Anticipating the necessity for some revenue to relief under present conditions, the Motor Boat Club has endorsed a bill in the State House through the influence of its legislative agent, James H. Cavanagh, covering the traffic violations court, which we feel will give a practical solution to the problem and prevent licenses from deteriorating through being a burden to petty pilots.

"The situation is hampered nearly with too many laws and too much opposition to needs upon the rights and we are inadequately exposed to the sale of these rights where they add to the city's revenue already overburdened suffering certain."

A. L. A. PROTESTS.

William A. Whittemore, general manager of the Automobile Legal Association, said:

"We are very much opposed. We believe that it will be hardship on users to pay a tax for the privilege of the city to do business in it. It will keep out of city, except away. It is a fair and not know whether any such discrimination against automobiles preceding had been brought.

Autoists, Here Is Mayor's Parking Tax Plan

High lights of Mayor Nichols' proposed parking tax, to be considered by the street commissioners tomorrow:

A yearly fee of from $5 to $10 for any and all parking of automobiles throughout the entire city.

Parking to be restricted as at present.

No change to be made in parking regulations.

Plan designed to make non-residents bear part of the burden imposed on taxpayers of the city to provide traffic facilities.

Those who do not pay fee will not be permitted to park anywhere in city.

Whether an autoist plans to park twenty minutes or an hour, he must have a tag on his car showing he has paid the fee.

Tourists from other sections of the State or persons who visit Boston only once or twice a week to shop will have to pay the fee.

The usual courtesies would be extended to cars of non-Massachusetts registry.

Parking tags to be issued with State registration plates each year.

A net revenue of at least $500,000 per annum expected.

motorists. In principle it is a tax for the privilege for coming into the city.

"The autoists of the State are taxed enough already. The item of trading horsepower has added $1,000,000 to the revenues of the State. This puts takes the most who is taxed heavily enough already.

Should the recommendation be adopted by the Board of Street Commissioners the subcommittee will state that it would bring the city a net revenue of at least $2,000,000 a year at the $5 fee and a $10 fee would send the figures to the $4,000,000 mark.

HAMILTON COMPANY SOON TO BE TAKEN BY BANKS

A special meeting of stockholders of Hamilton Manufacturing Company, continued to adjournment 16, was held today and adjourned without affirmative action after President Hackeman stated his guess that the plant would shortly take over this property. Mr. Hackeman said he doubted if any further meetings would be held. He said the directors instructed counsel to bring civil proceedings against any official of the company guilty of any wrong. He did not know whether any such proceeding had been brought.

'SHOOT TO KILL' ORDER GIVEN TO POLICE

"Shoot to kill" was the order issued today to Milton police by Chief James R. Travers, when search for one or more thugs in the woods off Highland street, Milton, was abandoned.

Patrolmen Joseph J. Dalton came upon the gunmen just as the thugs were starting away. He ordered them to halt and then emptied his gun after them, but had no opportunity to give chase.

It is believed the thugs, one of whom was badly wounded when surprised in the act of looting the home of Henry H. Sprague at No. 214 Highland street, escaped the cordon composed of the full Milton police force.

The spectacular escape of the thugs, during which they wrecked a motor truck and sedan from Louis Cohen of No. 39 Hazelton street, Mattapan, and fired several shots at pursuing officers, led to Chief Travers' order to "shoot to kill."

Searchlights were used in combing the woods for the fugitives.

Hereafter all burglars surprised at work in Milton will be shot down first and asked for their identification later.

Roscoe Hill, fingerprint expert for the State, was placed on the case today and began taking prints from the china and silverware piled up in the Sprague home ready to be taken away, and from the steering wheel of the wrecked sedan.

It is believed that the thugs can be traced through the fingerprints, if one of them does not turn up in a hospital as a result of his beating of the Sprague home.

CROOKS CALL, AND STORE IS EMPTY

Edward Rood, proprietor of a market at No. 997 Broadway, Chelsea, reported to the police today that thieves entered his store during the night and cleaned out his entire stock of groceries and meats as well as "carrying" the cash drawer for $12 in change. Rood suspended business pending the arrival of fresh stock.

BOK BAY STATE PROPAGANDA REVEALED

Carnegie fortune is behind the movement for American adherence to the court.

Senator Walsh said that the official organ of the Carnegie Foundation has been silent on the court, and that those in charge of the Foundation are against the court, but Senator Reed replied: "Carnegie money is behind the propaganda, and I will prove it if you will let me have the investigation I have asked for."

Senator Reed said it was time for the American people to awake to the "horrible fact" that there is an offensive and defensive coalition of fifty-five nations, forming the League of Nations, to make war upon the United States, should this country attempt to resort to arms to enforce its rights without the consent of the League.

"If the people understood this there is not a county in the United States," he declared, "in which soldiers would not be drilling within 48 hours."

DAWES RAPPED AGAIN.

During the discussion of propaganda, Vice-President Dawes and his campaign for revision of the Senate rules again were put on the gridiron by Senator Reed. Said the Missourian:

"If this Senate is to trouble to propaganda it will become so contemptible that it would not be worth while for the Vice-President to continue his criticisms."

While Senator Reed was speaking, Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, leader of the anti-court forces, said privately that the proposition put forward by opponents was that the court be laid aside for the tax bill, and that four days after the passage of this measure the protocol and statute should be read and then debate limited on the reservations.

INSIST ON SETTING DATE.

"We would not consent to any fixed hour of a given day to vote," he said. "There are some fifteen reservations pending, and if we are agreed to a certain day for a vote it might be that the Senate would have to dispose of the most important of all of the reservations without opportunity for one minute of discussion."

Pro-court leaders insisted on a given date for a vote. They now will seek to wear the opposition down.

Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, leader of the pro-court forces, said that his side was agreeable to a vote at any time up to February 10, but that it had made a counter proposition to lay aside the court and pass the tax bill if opponents would agree to a date for a vote after passage of that measure.

Senator Reed continued his speech throughout most of today's session. At one point he charged that a "trade had been made with the man in the White House," and branded as "disloyal" the efforts of the Court supporters "to take the United States across the seas into the affairs of Europe."

Turning to leaders in the fight for the Court, he shouted:

"If that does not please you, gentlemen, make the most of it."

ONE TIME WOMEN'S WORK IS DONE

Boston today disproved that old adage which says a woman's work is never done. These two "got through" as Assistant Election Commissioners and the edict was made to stick despite their defiance. Photo shows Mrs. Christine D. Paige, William Mahoney and Mrs. Carrie E. Sheehan.

36 LYNN FIRE VICTIMS RECOVER FROM EFFECTS

The 36 women and children trapped by fire in the upper floors of the apartment building at No. 69 Blossom street, Lynn, and rescued by firemen and police, are all reported as having recovered today.

Many of the women, the firemen report, were about to throw their babies from the second and third floor windows when they were rescued. A dog gave the alarm.

WOMEN LOCKED OUT OF OFFICE AND 'JOBS'

Still fighting for their jobs, Mrs. Christina D. Paige and Mrs. Carrie E. Sheehan, two widows discharged as assistants in the city Election Commissioners' office, lost another skirmish at City Hall today.

For the past two weeks the women have been reporting for work despite the fact that while they were absent for a brief time, their desks were taken out of the department and hidden in the basement.

The second defeat against them was marked up today when the little swinging gate leading into the inner offices was locked against them and they were barred out.

Except for heated words, no warfare was indulged in.

William E. Mahoney, executive clerk in the Election Department, was the man who held the gate, on orders from above, and it was his duty to be adamant.

Curious spectators had gathered near the offices in expectation of trouble.

When they were turned away at the gate, the women were advised to resume their tasks as "directors" to persons having business with the Election Department, but unfamiliar with the ropes.

Instead, they declared indignantly that they intended visiting the State House to look up bills passed in 1875 or thereabouts, governing appointments and removals of officials and upholding, they said, their contention that they were removed illegally.

Mrs. Paige and Mrs. Sheehan were appointed by Mayor Curley to serve as assistants to the Board of Election Commissioners, but in the last city election they were listed as deputy election commissioners.

2 KLANS IN SLANDER SUIT OVER $500,000

Indianapolis, Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Trial of the suit asking $500,000 damages brought by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America against the Independent Klan of America, which has headquarters in Muncie, Ind., started in United States District Court today. The plaintiff charges the Independent Klan slandered officers of the original organization and violated its rights by using the name "Klan," in its title. The right to use the word "Klan" is reasonably worth a million dollars, the plaintiff averred.

A nose is a purely personal matter, whether it be decorated with a bulbous and florid rum blossom or whether it be cast in a delicate Grecian mould, or again whether it be rebuilt along the latest and snappiest lines of nasal architecture. At least John W. Steel, tenor and former musical comedy actor, thinks his nose is a personal matter and if he has it remodeled, "that's nobody's business" if he does.

So John has filed suit against Variety, a New York theatrical publication and asks the sum of $25,000 because that paper said he had had his nose operation on to make it prettier. Variety also said, and there's the rub, that Mrs. Steel urged him to have it done.

The built-over nose is quite popular these days among those who strut upon the boards. There's Fannie Brice who had a bump taken off her nose to improve her beauty.

Rosetta Duncan of the famed Duncan sisters resorted to the skill of plastic surgery when a policeman broke her nose out in Illinois.

Jack Dempsey, whose proboscis suffered in the days of the ring past when he was still in the squared circle, had a very neat job done and now he's a perfect Adonis.

Walter Hampden did a pretty good putty job on his nose when he was playing the role of Cyrano in Rostand's classic, "Cyrano de Bergerac." It was Cyrano himself who said that his nose always attracted to his destination a half hour ahead of him. But that was long before the plastic surgeon.

THREATS OF HUSBAND TO QUIT BARED

Mrs. Alice White Shalit Says Dentist Was Engaged, but She Won Him

Portland, Me., Jan. 21.—Sobbing at intervals in her recital, Mrs. Alice W. Shalit of Roxbury, Mass., young wife and mother suing her mother-in-law for $250,000 alienation of affections, declared that her husband threatened to go into bankruptcy to avoid supporting her.

The husband, Dr. Harold M. Shalit, Portland dentist, is estranged from her solely because his mother was spiteful toward her, the younger Mrs. Shalit charges.

Under cross-examination today by Joseph Connelly, counsel for the mother-in-law, Alice testified that her mother-in-law did not wish her to have her baby the first year of marriage, and gave her medicines.

WAS TOLD OF WILL.

The cross-examiner laid stress in some of his questions on the intimacy of the dentist saying even cut of his father's will.

"Did you ever see your husband's father's will?" he asked. She replied she had not.

Q.—Did you ever earn until the son was cut off in the will? A.—Strangers told me to.

Q.—Who told you? A.—A girl who knew a girl my husband was engaged to before he married me.

Q.—What was her name? A.—Well, it has been a long time now, I think she was Helen Cohen of Roxbury.

Q.—She told you this before or after you left your husband's home in January, 1924? A.—I think it was after.

DENIED "OTHER GIRL."

Q.—How did it come about that she told you this? A.—I met her on the street and she told me of the other young lady who had been engaged to Dr. Shalit, now the girl did for think much of him and was glad she was through with him.

Q.—What was the name of this girl your husband was engaged to? A.—She said it was Ada Rubel, and I think she lived in Roxbury, too.

Q.—Was this the girl your husband was with the first night you met him at the Copley Plaza? A.—No.

Q.—But a girl was with him and was keeping company with him when you met him that first night? A.—Well, he denies it to me to the end.

GOING INTO BANKRUPTCY

Q.—Did you obtain a copy of Bernard Shalit's will before you left Portland? A.—I guess my father did, but he did not tell me about it at the time.

Q.—Did you and your father obtain a copy of the will before you left Portland? A.—I guess my father did, but he did not tell me about it at the time.

Q.—Did you not tell your father that Harold would not support me and was going to go into bankruptcy.

Q.—Why was your husband going into bankruptcy? A.—He said to avoid supporting me.

Q.—You mean that he was going into bankruptcy to avoid supporting you? A.—Yes sir. That is just what he told me.

Q.—He gave you money to live on, didn't he? A.—Yes, $25 a week.

Q.—And your half your rent, electricity and laundry free? A.—Yes.

Q.—At the time you sent the keys of your apartment to Mr. Herman her former counsel were you employing detectives? A.—No.

Q.—Was Mr. Herman employing detectives? A.—I don't know.

PRES. LOWELL SAVES LIFE OF 'JAY-WALKER'

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, carries a heavy burden of learning and responsibility, but he demonstrated in Harvard square that he retains the faculty of going into action with trained precision when the occasion warrants.

The occasion in this instance arose from the impulsiveness of President Lowell's friend and companion on daily strolls, "Phantom," a long-eared brown spaniel.

Despite the academic and conservative atmosphere, in which he has his being, Phantom is not given to deliberation or introspection. He doesn't look before he leaps, in other words, and on Massachusetts avenue, with its streams of motor traffic, that is apt to constitute criminal negligence.

Possibly Phantom feels the eminence of his lord and master should open a passageway for them through the traffic, as the Red Sea rolled back for the Israelites.

At any rate, as President Lowell and Phantom strolled from the college yard to the avenue the spaniel, head up and tail wagging, stepped jauntily out toward the rushing torrent of automobiles.

As the dog left the curb, unmindful of the menace confronting him, the dignified educator, proceeded to demonstrate the co-ordination between his mental and muscular facilities.

Leaping forward, at the same time reversing his cane, he reached out, hooked Phantom by the collar and drew the canine to safety.

Wales Rides Better or Nag Is Gentler; He's on Top More

London, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—The Prince of Wales, who is one of the most eager followers of hounds in his father's domain, is riding much better this year than last. Thus far there is no record of the heir apparent having taken any nasty tumbles, such as he experienced last season, and he has hunted with all the first-class packs in England.

Latterly the Prince has shown a preference for hunting in the shires and has attended the meets more regularly even than many masters of hounds.

Princess Mary is also fond of hunting and now only follows the Brantham Moor hounds.

TWO HURT WHEN CAR HITS AUTO

One man was seriously injured and another slightly hurt today when the wagon in which they were riding was struck by a Boston Elevated trolley car on Boston avenue, near Winthrop street, Medford Hillside.

H. W. Biggs, fifty-five, of No. 42 Cross street, Medford, was taken to Lawrence Memorial Hospital following the crash. James Ingraham, No. 75 Summer street, Medford, received minor bruises.

Both men were thrown out of the wagon, which belonged to Biggs. A sedan parked nearby, belonging to Charles M. Michigan, No. 210A Boston avenue, was damaged when the wagon crashed against it.

LORD'S LEAGUE IN FIGHT UPON ARGONAUTA

The Lord's Day League today stepped into the battle of dancing at the Argonauta night club at Rowe's wharf, when the organization filed a bill which would incorporate the word "dance" in the present Sunday statutes.

Recently Attorney Charles H. Innes, counsel for the club, showed the court that the law says nothing about dancing in its provision against sports on the Lord's Day. Chief Justice Bolster ruled that the club was right in its contention.

Today Representative George L. Richards of Malden, acting for Arthur D. Kneeland and Samuel W. Meridum, secretary and legislative counsel respectively of the Lord's Day League, filed the bill with the legislature.

If the bill is passed it will place dancers, promoters of dancing on Sunday, and even those present at Sunday dancing within the law and liable to fines ranging from $50 to $100.

GIRL SWOONS IN JURT; ACQUITTED OF THEFT

Virginia Williams, — of Arlington, was so overcome by emotion today in court, when Judge Michael J. Murray found her not guilty on larceny charge brought by her employer, that she fainted. The complainant, Francis A. Hebson of Tremont street, South End, charged her with taking her photograph and a ring from his apartment. "How about walking out?" queried the court. "No, sir," responded the twain in unison. Then, acquitted, Virginia swooned.

Reading Milkman Says His Troubles Started as Partner Fled With Cash

A romance and elopement that wrecked two homes and one milk farm, came out today in Federal Court when trustees of the Reading Farm Milk Co. petitioned for the return of two milk routes, counted as assets.

The slopers, according to Gerry Hollis, co-partner in the farm company, were his partner, Herbert F. Knowles, father of two children, and Mrs. K. Robertson, formerly of Medford, both being forty-five, but romantic.

Hollis testified that Knowles once lived at No. 75 Pleasant street, Stoneham, and that he carried off his new bride last April, taking with him all the company's cash except $2,000.

BACK TO FIRST WIFE.

The partner, Hollis' testimony disclosed, got the cream.

Left behind, in addition to the $2,000, were Knowles' wife and two sons and Mrs. Robertson's husband.

The elopement ruined the business of the company, Hollis declared, and he was forced to go into bankruptcy last July.

Since then he has learned, he said, that Knowles tired of Iris second mate and was reunited with his original wife somewhere in New Jersey, but Mrs. Robertson's whereabouts is a mystery.

The trustees, in their petition, seek restoration of two routes one in Stoneham and the other in Reading, both of which are now controlled by the Forbes Dairy Company of Stoneham.

SEEK TO SAVE DOOMED SLAYER OF BOSTON MAN

Montreal, Jan. 21 (I.N.S.)—Appeal is to be made to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence passed upon Joseph Magro, now in "death row" at Bordeaux Jail awaiting execution on February 13 for the murder of Donald Carmichael, of Boston, last Summer in the Dreamland Cafe. Leon Plante, attorney for the condemned man, made this announcement today. Youth of the prisoner, lack of evidence of premeditation for the shooting and addition to recruits in the defendant will be the reasons advanced, Plante said.

RIVER 'DEATH DOCTOR' DIES

Brockton, Jan. 21.—Dr. Dalva H. Swope, fifty-eight, one of two men indicted in the death of Mrs. George H. Wolschendorf of East Bridgewater, whose dismembered body was found in the Merrimack River, died here today at his home at No. 132 Perkins avenue.

Dr. William Robb, Back Bay physician, the other man indicted with Dr. Swope, is now serving a State Prison term for connection with the case. Dr. Swope was never tried. He was indicted as an accessory before the fact. His attorney asked for a bill of particulars, but it was never filed.

KILLED NEAR NORTH STATION

Philip Kennedy, fifty-eight, a bridgeworker employed by the Boston & Maine Railroad, was killed on the drawbridge just outside the North Station early today when struck by an inbound train. The body was removed to the Northern Mortuary. Kennedy was married and lived at 24 Pearl street, Charlestown.

PLAN 15-MILE TUNNEL FROM VATICAN TO SEA TO FREE "IMPRISONED" POPE

NICHOLS CALLS PARKING TAX PARLEY

Autoists, Here Is Mayor's Parking Tax Plan

High lights of Mayor Nichols' proposed parking tax, to be considered by the street commissioners tomorrow:

A yearly fee of from $5 to $10 for any and all parking of automobiles throughout the entire city.

Parking to be restricted as at present.

No change to be made in parking regulations.

Plan designed to make non-residents bear part of the burden imposed on taxpayers of the city to provide traffic facilities.

Those who do not pay fee will not be permitted to park anywhere in city.

Whether the autoist plans to park twenty minutes or an hour, he must have a tag on his car showing he has paid the fee.

Tourists from other sections of the State or persons who visit Boston only once or twice a week to shop will have to pay the fee.

The usual courtesies would be extended to cars of non-Massachusetts registry.

Parking tags to be issued with State registration plates each year.

A net revenue of at least $500,000 per annum expected.

Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols' plan to increase the annual tax of from $5 to $10 for parking privileges within the limits of the city was discussed at a meeting of the Mayor with leading merchants and business men in the interests of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

Among those present during the discussion were Edward F. Jenkins, chairman of the Board of Street Commissioners; Frederick Pope, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on municipal matters; Joseph Wells, police commissioner; Lee Slocum, chairman of the subcommittee on street traffic of the Chamber, and Samuel H. Wolcott, secretary of the Retail Trade Board.

A public hearing on the matter is scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the office of the street commissioners.

Auto owners, private and commercial, of cold pocket books are up to arms against the new suggestion of Mayor Nichols.

MOTOR CLUB ACTS.

The Boston Motor Club issued the following statement at an emergency meeting of the board of governors called by President Moses H. Baldwin, Jr.:

"We consider the proposed plan for charging a fee for the privilege of parking an automobile in the streets of Boston an imposition on the rights of the automobile owners. The proposal is unfair, unjust and unreasonable. The proposal to charge a fee for parking privileges is a tax for the privilege of coming into the city.

"The autoists of the State are taxed enough already. The plan of taxing motorists not added to the burden of the taxpayers of the city. We are opposed to the proposal and will do all in our power to defeat it. We feel that we have given a good deal to the people and should not be penalized further by having to pay for parking places.

"The Motor Club is in hearty accord with the many home and business interests in this town in saying that we are unreasonably opposed to the new tax on the autoists when they add to the cost of living which everybody is trying to avoid."

A. L. A. PROTESTS.

Thomas A. Mahoney, president of the Automobile Legal Association, issued a statement as follows:

"We are decidedly opposed. We believe that the proposed plan is unfair and unjust to the autoists. It would be hard to say which would be hard. He said the Chamber of Commerce had no legal authority to act in the matter. We are opposed to it in principle. It is a tax on the privilege of using the streets. It is not a question of money. It was never intended that the streets should be used for any purpose of making money. It is a tax and we know whether any such Chamber of Commerce action would be legal had been brought.

'SHOOT TO KILL' ORDER GIVEN TO POLICE

Shooting to disable" was the order issued today to Milton police by Chief James H. Travers, when search for one or more thugs in the woods of Highland street, Milton, was abandoned.

Patrolman Austin J. Tobin came upon two suspicious men in the woods early today, he ordered them to halt and then emptied his nine shots. One had to be satisfied to give chase.

It is believed the thugs, one of whom was badly wounded when surprised in the act of looting the home of Henry M. Parsons at No. 1 Highland street, escaped the police cordon composed of the full Milton police force.

The investigation started last night during which two weapons, a rubber glove and a mask were found in the woods. They had stolen from Linda Richman, 15 Nos. 20 Hamilton street, distributed and fired seven shots at morning citizens, led to chief Travers' order "shoot to kill."

Several Milton men were called in early in the search for the fugitive.

Hereafter all burglars surprised at work in Milton will be shot down, Chief Travers asked for their identification later.

Bonnie Hill, fingerprint expert for the state, was called on the case today and began taking prints from the china and silverware piled up in the Parsons' home ready to be taken by the thugs when the alarm aborted their work.

It is believed that the thugs ran a car into the woods and left it when they heard the police.

CROOKS CALL, AND STORE IS EMPTY

Thieves broke open the safe of a pipe and fur store at 720 Broadway, Chelsea, early today, and when they looked into their loot store during the night and cleaned out his entire stock of overcoats and masts as well as "Stetsons" the weak dealer declared today. The safe was opened locally, it is believed, by experts who were familiar with the method of break.

Clemenceau fortune is behind the movement for American adherence to the court.

Senator Walsh said that the official organ of the Carnegie Foundation has been silent on the court, and that those in charge of the Foundation are against the court, but Senator Reed replied: "Carnegie money is behind the propaganda, and I will prove it if you will let me have the investigation I have asked for."

Senator Reed said it was time for the American people to awake to the "horrible fact" that there is an offensive and defensive coalition of fifty-five nations, forming the League of Nations, to make war upon the United States, should this country attempt to resort to arms to enforce its rights without the consent of the League.

"If you have understood that there is not a country in the United States," he declared, "in which soldiers would not be drilling within 48 hours."

DAWES RAPPED AGAIN.

During the discussion of propaganda, Vice-President Dawes and his campaign for revision of the Senate rules again were put on the gridiron by Senator Reed. Said the Missourian:

"If this Senate is to trouble itself with propaganda it will become so contemptible that it would not be worth while for the Vice-President to continue to preside."

While Senator Reed was speaking, Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, leader of the pro-court forces, said privately that the prosecution put forward by opponents was that the court be laid aside for the law, and that four days after the peace of this nation are the protocol and statute should be read and then debate limited on reservations.

INSIST ON SETTING DATE.

"We would not consent to any final vote of a given day to vote," he said. "There are some fifteen reservations pending, and if we are agreed by a certain day for a vote it might be that the Senate would have no chance of the most important of all of the reservations without any fair opportunity for consideration."

Pro-court leaders insisted on a given date for a vote. They now will seek to wear the opposition down.

Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, leader of the pro-court forces, said that his side was agreeable to a vote at any time up to February 10, but that it had made a counter proposition to lay aside the court and pass the law bill if opponents would agree to a date for a vote after passage of that measure.

Senator Reed continued his speech throughout the day's session. At one point he charged that a "trade had been made with the man in the White House," and branded as "disloyal" the efforts of the Court supporters "to take the United States across the seas into the affairs of Europe."

Turning to leaders in the fight for and against the Court, he shouted:

"If that does not please you, gentlemen, make the most of it."

36 LYNN FIRE VICTIMS RECOVER FROM EFFECTS

The 36 women and children trapped by fire in the upper floors of the apartment building at No. 69 Blossom street, Lynn, and rescued by firemen and police, are all reported as having recovered today.

Many of the women, the firemen report, were about to throw their babies from the second and third floor windows when they were rescued.

ONE TIME WOMEN'S WORK IS DONE

Boston today disproved that old adage which says a woman's work is never done. These two "got through" as Assistant Election Commissioners and the edict was made to stick despite their defiance. Photo shows Mrs. Christine D. Paige, William Mahoney and Mrs. Carrie E. Sheehan.

WOMEN LOCKED OUT OF OFFICE AND 'JOBS'

Still fighting for their jobs, Mrs. Christina D. Paige and Mrs. Carrie E. Sheehan, two widows discharged as assistants in the city Election Commissioners' office, lost another skirmish at City Hall today.

For the past two weeks the women have been reporting for work despite the fact that while they were absent for a brief time, their desks were taken out of the department and hidden in the basement.

The second defeat against them was marked up today when the little swinging gate leading into the inner offices was locked against them and they were forced out.

Except for heated words, no warfare was indulged in.

William E. Mahoney, executive clerk in the Election Department, was the man who held the gate, on orders from above, and it was his duty to be adamant.

Curious spectators had gathered near the offices in expectation of trouble.

When they were turned away at the gate, the women were advised to resume their tasks as "Directors" to persons having business with the Election Department, but unfamiliar with the ropes.

Instead, they declared indignantly that they intended visiting the State House to look up bills passed in 1875 or thereabouts, governing appointments and removals of officials and prohibiting the discharge of their contention that they were removed illegally.

Mrs. Paige and Mrs. Sheehan were appointed by Mayor Curley to serve as assistants to the Board of Election Commissioners, but in the last week election they were listed as deputy election commissioners.

2 KLANS IN SLANDER SUIT OVER $500,000

Indianapolis, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Trial of the suit asking $500,000 damages brought by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of America against the Independent Klan of America, which was organized in Muncie, Ind., started in United States District Court today. The plaintiff charges the Independent Klan slandered officers of the original organization and violated its rights by using the name "Klan" in its title. The right to use the word "Klan" is reasonably worth a million dollars, the plaintiff asserted.

A nose is a purely personal matter, whether it be decorated with a bulbous and florid rum blossom or whether it be cast in a delicate Grecian mould, or again whether it be rebuilt along the latest and snappiest lines of nasal architecture. At least John W. Steel, tenor and former musical comedy actor, thinks his nose is a personal matter and if he has it remodeled, thinks nobody's business if he does.

So John has filed suit against Variety, a New York theatrical publication and asks the sum of $25,000 because that paper said he had his nose operated on to make it prettier. Variety also said, and there's the fun, that Mrs. Steel urged him to have it done.

The bulldozer nose is quite popular these days among those who work upon the boards. There's Fannie Brice who had a bump taken off her nose to improve her beauty.

Rosetta Duncan of the famed Duncan sisters resorted to the skill of plastic surgery when a policeman broke her nose out in Illinois.

Jack Dempsey, whose prowess suffered a decline of late, in the past when he was still in the smartest circle, had a very neat job done and now sports a perfect Adonis.

Walter Hampden did a pretty good putty job on his nose when he was playing the role of Cyrano de Bergerac. It was Cyrano himself who said that his nose always preceded him by distinguishing a half hour ahead of him. But then was long before the plastic surgeon.

PRES. LOWELL SAVES LIFE OF 'JAY-WALKER'

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, carries a heavy burden of learning and responsibility, but he demonstrated in Harvard square that he retains the faculty of going into action with trained precision when the occasion warrants.

The occasion in this instance arose from the impulsiveness of President Lowell's friend and companion on daily strolls, "Phantom," a long-eared brown spaniel.

Despite the academic and conservative atmosphere, in which he has his being, Phantom is not given to deliberation or introspection. He doesn't look before he leaps, in other words, and on Massachusetts avenue, with its streams of motor traffic, that is apt to constitute criminal negligence.

Possibly Phantom feels the eminence of his lord and master should open a passage-way for him through the traffic, as the Red Sea parted both for the Israelites.

At any rate, as President Lowell and Phantom strolled from the college yard to the avenue the spaniel bored on and just escaping stepped lightly out toward the rushing torrent of automobiles.

As the dog left the curb, mindful of the menace confronting him, the dignified educator proceeded to demonstrate the coordination between his mental and muscular faculties.

Leaping forward, at the same time reversing his cane, he rescued and hooked Phantom by the collar and drew the canine to safety.

Wales Rides Better or Nag Is Gentler; He's on Top More

London, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—The Prince of Wales, who is one of the most eager followers of hounds in his father's domain, is riding much better this year than last. Thus far there is no record of the fear apparent having taken any nasty tumbles, such as he experienced last season, and he has hunted with all the fire-eaters he can in England.

Latterly the Prince has shown a preference for hunting in the shires, and has attended the meets more regularly even than many masters of hounds.

Princess Mary is also fond of hunting but now only follows the Bramham Moor hounds.

Reading Milkman Says His Troubles Started as Partner Fled With Cash

A romance and elopement that wrecked two homes and one milk farm, came out in the day in Federal Court when trustees of the Reading Farm Milk Co. petitioned for the return of two milk routes, counted as assets.

The elopers, according to George Hollis, co-partner in the farm company, were his partner, Herbert F. Knowles, father of seven children, and Mrs. K. Robertson, formerly of Medford, both being forty-five, but remaining.

Hollis testified that Knowles once lived at No. 24 Pleasant street, Stoneham, and that he carried off the new bride-to-be. Apple cheese with him as companion on a week's honeymoon.

The partners' duties terminating abruptly on the elopement, Hollis testified that in addition to cash $2,000 were Knowles' wife and run some and Mrs. Robertson's household.

The elopement ruined the business of the corporation, he said, and he was forced to go into bankruptcy last July.

Since then he has learned, he said, that Knowles tired of his second love after a week and was reunited with his original wife somewhere in New Jersey, but Mrs. Robertson's whereabouts is a mystery.

The trustees, to meet pending suit, petitioned for two routes, one to Knowles and the other to Hollis, and the Federal Court granted the petition.

THREATS OF HUSBAND TO QUIT BARED

Mrs. Alice White Shalit Says Dentist Was Engaged, but She Won Him

Portland, Me., Jan. 21.—Sobbing at intervals in her recital, Mrs. Alice W. Shalit of Roxbury, Mass., young wife and mother suing her mother-in-law for $250,000 alienation of affections, declared that her husband threatened to go into bankruptcy to avoid supporting her.

The husband, Dr. Harold M. Shalit, Portland dentist, is estranged from her solely because his mother was grateful toward her, the younger Mrs. Shalit charges.

Under cross-examination today by Joseph Connolly, counsel for the mother-in-law, Alice testified that her mother-in-law did not wish her to have her baby the first year of marriage and gave no medicines.

WAS TOLD OF WILL

The cross-examiner laid stress in some of his questions on the matter of the dentist having been cut off in his father's will.

"But you never saw your husband's father, did you, during your married life?" counsel asked her.

Q.—Did you ever learn that the son was cut off in the will? A.—Strangers told me that.

Q.—Who told you? A.—A girl who knew a girl who worked here and used to before he married me.

Q.—What was her name? A.—Well, it was Alice a long time now. I think now was Rena Cohen of Roxbury.

Q.—She told you this before or after you were married? A.—I think it was after.

DENIED "OTHER GIRL"

Q.—How did it come about that she told you this? A.—I met her on the street and she told me of the entire young lady who had been engaged to Dr. Shalit from the girl did not know of it. She was and she was through with him.

Q.—What was the name of this girl? A.—I don't know what name she is. She said it was like Simons and I think she lived in Roxbury, too.

Q.—Was this the girl you referred to when you wrote that first night? A.—Was she the girl you referred to in that letter?

GOING INTO BANKRUPTCY.

Q.—Did you receive a copy of Harold's answer to the libel on June 14? A.—I guess my father did. I received a letter from him.

Q.—Did you authorize your father to write it? A.—I told him.

Q.—Was it your intention to go into bankruptcy? A.—He said to [illegible]

Q.—Did you tell your father you were going into bankruptcy? A.—I told him I was going to [illegible]

Q.—You knew what it was? A.—I knew what it was.

Q.—Did he give you money to live on, then? A.—Yes, $75 a week.

Q.—And you told your father you were going into bankruptcy? A.—I told him.

Q.—Is it true that since the keys of the house were taken away from Herman [illegible]

Q.—Was Mr. Herman employing [illegible]

SEA BATTLE OVER $1,500,000 IN RUM

New York, Jan. 21—Capture of a rum-running tug with $1,500,000 worth of contraband liquor after a thrilling three-hour battle, in which machine guns barked and cannons roared, marked the climax today of a twenty-four hour drive on whiskey smugglers, in which two big liners were raided, and brought the total seizures well above the $2,000,000 mark.

In value and quantity the seizures surpass all others, enforcement agents said. Of all the seizures the capture of the tug Roscoe is regarded as the most important.

She was captured by marine police at Jefferson street, and the East River after she pulled away from a coast guard boat that shelled her for nearly an hour in the Narrows.

Realizing that escape was impossible, members of the crew opened the seacocks at the wharf and tried to scuttle the ship with her valuable cargo. Policemen clambered aboard, closed the seacocks and captured four of the crew.

The tug Roscoe is valued at more than $250,000. She carried between 2500 and 3000 cases of Scotch whiskey, hundreds and cases of rye and hundreds of cases of valuable champagne, cordials and brandies.

The four prisoners are John Lenox of Hopkins avenue, Boston, and Henry Cole, Joseph Silva and George Hayes, all of New York city.

It's Worse Than That Duel With Toothpicks

Washington, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Representative Blanton, Democrat of Texas, substituted a silent by nodded "good morning" for a promised "good licking," when he met Representative Reid, Republican, of Illinois, today, but he took occasion to assail Reid in a statement.

They clashed at a meeting of the House committee considering legislation for the District of Columbia, and the talk of a "licking" followed.

In his statement Blanton charged Reid with attempting "to hamper me in every ridiculous way possible," instead of co-operating in an effort to protect the rights of the people of Washington.

HAVE YOU LOST A BOY OF 11 IN BOSTON?

Well, One's Been Found, but Nobody Seems to Care, Police Say

Eleven-year-old Kenneth Smith cannot find his home and though he has been lost two days, his parents do not seem to be hunting for him.

He was taken for a ride through Charles street, West End, in a police flivver today because he told the officers at Joy street station he thought that was where he lived but after a long search and inquiry at several houses he was still a very much lost boy.

Even radio queries have failed to get the police any word from his parents. Kenneth says he just moved here with his folks from Branch street, Lowell. Leaving his home for a look at the city he became lost and is not even sure that Charles street is the one in which he lives.

The boy will be kept at the Plymouth Street Home, in Roxbury, while police are investigating.

GOVERNESS KILLED IN SEVEN-STORY PLUNGE

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Nancy Hamlet, thirty-year-old governess was killed today when she either fell or jumped from the eleventh story of an apartment house at No. 907 Fifth avenue.

Miss Hamlet was employed in the household of Charles A. Stone, president of Stone & Webster, engineers.

CONSTITUTION FUND DAY IS PLANNED

Elks to Send Orators Into the Schools to Tell the Story of "Old Ironsides"

Three hundred orators, among them the very flower of the Boston bar, are all ready to go into the schools of Boston, public and parochial, and tell the thrilling story of "Old Ironsides."

Members of Boston Lodge No. 10 of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, the three hundred will be called together by Chairman James R. Flanagan next Monday evening following the regular weekly meeting of the Boston School Committee.

Dr. Frederick L. Bogan, chairman of the School Committee, and two of his four colleagues, Edward M. Sullivan, Esq., and Mr. William G. O'Hare, prominent insurance man, have declared their intention to vote on Monday evening in favor of opening the schools to an "Old Ironsides" program, in connection with the campaign to raise $500,000 for the frigate's reconstruction.

"But what we hope for," Exalted Ruler Daniel J. Kane of Boston Lodge said today on behalf of the more than 7,000 Elks in Boston, "is a unanimous vote of the committee. We want Mr. Gray with us; we need the encouragement of Mrs. Barron's support.

"Because, when all is said and done, this is a family affair, a Boston movement. This last survivor of the first ships of our young navy is a Boston boat. She belongs to us. As Dr. Bogan put it so well last Monday night, she is as much a part of Boston as Bunker Hill, or the Old South Church, or Dorchester Heights!

AMERICAN JOB.

"And let it be understood that the B. P. O. E. has no selfish interest in this great and patriotic undertaking. This is, first, an American job, and after that a navy job.

"I am not going to waste a single one over the suggestion that if Uncle Sam wants this old frigate restored he ought to dig down and get the money, and not pester the school children of America for contributions.

"Does anyone believe the mere collection of funds is the basic reason for this national drive? What nonsense! We want the children to know about their navy and some of its accomplishments; to become familiar with the lives of some of the foremost figures; to realize that it IS their navy."

The chairman of the Elks' "Save Old Ironsides" committee, James R. Flanagan, is one of the best-known attorneys of Boston. He was as busy today, in his offices across Milk street from the Old South Church, as the proverbial bee, directing the mailing of "Save Old Ironsides" literature to the directors of Boston's 128 parochial schools.

The program in the schools, Mr. Flanagan said, will be about as follows:

Music—"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

Talk, by the principal, on Where the Constitution got her name, and how she came to be called "Old Ironsides."

Recitation, Oliver Wendell Holmes' "Old Ironsides."

President Coolidge's letter to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announcing the titles of the essays in the Prize Medal Competition, will be read by the principal.

Reading of the best essay.

Presentation of the Eppley medal.

Selection of patriotic music.

Reading, by a pupil, of the Preamble of the United States Constitution.

Introduction of the orator.

Oration by a member of the Elks.

Presentation to the school of a picture of "Old Ironsides."

Presentation to a representative of the Elks' committee of the school's "Save Old Ironsides" contributions.

Music—"Star Spangled Banner."

"OLD IRONSIDES" DAY.

Friday, February 19th, the last school day before Washington's Birthday, has been designated by the authorities of the archdiocese as "Old Ironsides Day" in the 38 parish schools of the city, and Chairman Flanagan may was filling the ranks of his first battalion of speakers, to be present in these schools on that day.

The public schools, because of their greater number and much larger enrollment, present more of a problem to the Chairman of the "25's" Committee, but one he believes the earlier "Old Ironsides Day" in the parish schools will help to fit his orators for.

There are 74 public school districts in the city, some districts including groups of several schools. The high schools number 18.

"But I am not worrying," Mr. Flanagan declared, "for I have 7,500 men to draw from and, as everyone in Boston knows, at least half of them are ready speakers. What I shall aim to do is pick out the best of them."

Chairman Flanagan believes it will be of help to direct the early attention of students to the subjects President Coolidge has selected for their competitive essays. These subjects are:

For Colleges—"The contribution of the U.S.S. Constitution to human liberty and to national progress."

For High Schools—"Why did the victories of the U.S.S. Constitution contribute so largely to our success in the War of 1812?"

For Elementary Schools—"Why will the preservation of the U.S.S. Constitution promote patriotism?"

Aiding Fight

James R. Flanagan, chairman of the Elks' Boston "Old Ironsides" fund drive, with 7,000 members at his command, will draft 300 speakers to address school children on the history of the historic frigate Constitution.

TARIFF FIGHT GOES INTO FOURTH DAY

Washington, Jan. 22 (A.P.)—For the fourth consecutive day the tariff issue was debated in the House, with Republicans rising to defend the present law against Democratic attacks.

Representative Montgomery (Republican), Oklahoma, challenged the Democrats to be specific in their demands for revision of tariff rates, and Representative Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, replied that the Democrats would help mid-Western Republicans to write in rates to help the farmers if Republican leaders would agree to reopen the question.

COL. H. D. WEED, 52, WEDS FLIER'S WIDOW

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Colonel Harry Delyne Weed, fifty-two, wealthy inventor of Syracuse, N. Y., and Bridgeport, Ct., and Mrs. Virginia Gearheart, widow of Major Guy Gearheart, who was killed in an airplane accident, were married here.

BENTON ACTS IN FALL RIVER TAX MUDDLE

State Officials Probe Charge That Abatements Were Made by "Political Pull"

Fall River, Jan. 21—Today State authorities took a hand in Fall River's financial muddle which has become a political issue here.

District Attorney Stanley P. Hall of the South Eastern district, acting on orders from Attorney General Jay R. Benton and Commissioner Henry F. Long, came here from Taunton and was closeted with the board of assessors.

He would not say what resulted at the conference, but did admit he had come here to investigate the tax complaint brought by many Fall River residents.

Last year property owners in the city received the welcome news that the tax rate had been lowered. However, they found a joker in this when they came to pay their taxes, for the assessed values had been raised so that most property owners actually were forced to pay more than they had in previous years.

Pleas for tax abatements followed fast. Now certain property owners have charged that some $2,000,000 in taxes was abated, but they claim that the abatements were not rightfully awarded, and only those owners having political pull had their taxes abated.

Slayer Trapped

Martin Durkin, Chicago, slayer of Edward C. Shanahan, Department of Justice agent, was captured on the "Texas Special," bound from Dallas to St. Louis. In the stateroom with him was Irma Sullivan, 18, whom he claimed to have married in East St. Louis.

CONVICT TRIO ADMIT 3 NEW HOLD-UPS

Keating, Tracey and Ghella Get Mercy, in View of Previous Sentence

Three convicts, serving long State prison sentences for a series of hold-ups, one of which culminated in a gun battle and the wounding of a police officer, pleaded guilty to two new charges in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court today and confessed a third crime.

The convicts, John J. Keating, George Tracey and Carlo Ghella, admitted participation in an assault and robbery on William J. Gauchan at Arlington on November 7, pleaded guilty to assaulting and robbing Edward Malone at Cambridge on November 2, and confessed to a drug store hold-up in Everett, for which John J. Shea of Everett had been brought to trial. The case of Shea, however, was not pressed, two days ago.

Assistant District Attorney Warren A. Bishop argued that in view of the long sentences imposed on the men in Suffolk court, the new cases be placed on file. Judge George A. Flynn concurred.

The trio participated in a hold-up of a Brighton drug store, in which gun play resulted in the wounding of Patrolman F. Daly and Ghella, one of the members of the gang.

EXHUME BODY OF WATETOWN RECLUSE

plemented by the records of the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge.

BARRED SELF IN ATTIC.

From both sources it appears that Mrs. Sterling was originally Marie Crilley, sister of John Crilley, both having been born in Lowell, Jo..n Crilley died in 1886, and according to his will his sister was his only relative. The names of the parents could not be learned.

In their youth Marie and John Crilley lived in Watertown, where the sister is believed to have married a man named Sterling. It was his disappearance twenty years ago that resulted in the woman boarding up her home in Park Ridge, and taking up her residence in the attic, seeing no one but a neighbor occasionally.

In 1890 Mr. Armstrong was appointed guardian of Georgetta French, eccentric daughter of the late Capt. Thomas French of Watertown.

While living at a rooming house in Watertown, Georgetta met and became very fond of Mrs. Sterling. The two women were inseparable, and set together for hours in secret communion, apparently detached from all worldly matters.

ADOPTED BY COUSIN.

In 1895 Mr. Armstrong resigned as guardian of Georgetta French and her cousin, Mrs. Mary E. French was appointed to succeed him.

"Mrs. French lived in Chelsea," said Mr. Armstrong. "Soon after I took Georgetta to her, Mrs. Crilley Sterling followed. Georgetta's new guardian became so infatuated with Mrs. Sterling that she adopted her. She was then Georgetta's guardian and Marie's foster mother.

"That is the last I saw of any of them. Georgetta died in 1907 and I believe she made Marie Crilley Sterling French executrix of her will."

Mrs. Mary E. French became Georgetta's heir, and, in turn, when she died in 1912, the estate of the late Captain French passed to the foster daughter, known as Mrs. Mary C. French Sterling.

Coroner Oscar Wolff has ordered her body exhumed, as he is not satisfied with the speed with which the friendless woman was buried after it was found that she left money and securities, together with property some of which is in Watertown.

The death certificate, signed by Dr. George T. Honaker, showed the woman died of lobar pneumonia. Today Dr. Honaker said that he was not positive that this was the cause of death but that "it was my belief."

COASTER DEATH DRIVER CLEARED; AUTOIST HELD

Two inquests were conducted before Judge Haskell in Brookline court today, one into the death of Albert Dewaney, a boy killed while coasting in front of his home in Riverdale street, the other into the death of Rev. Burke Leavitt, retired clergyman, killed by an automobile in Beacon street. Young Dewaney ran into an automobile driven by Barney Torrin of Harold park, Roxbury. Torrin was not arrested. The minister was killed by an automobile driven by Samuel Barkin of Dean road. A complaint against Barkin was issued.

THIEVES ACTIVE AT FIRE IN HAVERHILL

The shoe factory, a one-story wooden building, stood on the outskirts of the town and lack of water pressure handicapped the fire men. The fire started in the boiler room.

The two fires, coming almost simultaneously, caused considerable excitement in the city. Today was the fourteenth anniversary of a fire similar to this which wiped out another building on the site of the Academy of Music.

The roof and two upper stories were a total loss and the theater and second floor offices were heavily damaged by smoke and water.

Five Captain Dennis Walker and Firemen George Dubois, George Beadle and Charles Saunders, were stricken by gas fumes and Horace Burrill, another fireman, suffered serious cuts and bruises from falling glass and wreckage.

EXHAUSTED IN BATTLE.

All were dragged to safety by their companions. Captain Walker was found while fighting the flames on the third floor. Several other fire fighters were exhausted by the hours of battling with the flames.

On one way in the fire Mrs. Lillian Staples discovered thieves making away from the valve shop of Louis Cohen, No. 216 Washington street, with an automobile load of stolen clothing. They had jimmied the front door. Cohen set his loss at $500.

Fifty persons who occupied 16 apartments in a section of the building where the fire was discovered were forced to flee the burning rapidly and with what few valuables they could gather.

The fire was discovered by Night Watchman Clarence Vose, in the shoe parlor on the second floor. After sounding the alarm the night watchman proceeded to rescue Mrs. Ellen Anderson, 50, an invalid for more than twenty years. When apparatus arrived firemen assisted him in carrying the aged woman to a place of safety.

Other occupants had gained the streets before the apparatus arrived, and several of the men assisted the firemen in handling hose lines.

Seven firemen from the Bradford and Mt. Washington stations narrowly escaped death when the roof collapsed while they were fighting the fire in the rear of the third floor. Fire officials from the Methuen Temple roof, next door, noticed the roof beginning to sag and a passenger warned the firemen just in time.

AGAIN HIT BY FIRE.

About a half hour after the fire started the blaze spread into the business street side of the building and three clothing stores on the first floor of this section were damaged by water and smoke.

The clothing stores are owned by the Hanna Clothing Company, P. & Q. Clothing Company and Kempton Clothing Company.

Mrs. L. M. White, one of the occupants, recently was burned out in the Peabody Building.

A leaky gas connection, caused by a minor explosion, greatly hampered firemen's efforts during the early part of the fire. An emergency crew from the gas company responded to the second alarm and the gas was turned off.

Now France Is Sending Coal to Boston

For the first time in history a cargo of coal from France is coming to Boston. It is expected that tomorrow the French steamer Fred Cleaves will arrive at the Old Colony Railroad wharves with 3,000 tons of French coal.

The steamer loaded at Rouen and sailed January 5 for Cape Cod, from which harbor it will proceed to Boston.

The cardinal passed a satisfactory night, and his condition today was said to be stationary. He received Lord Holford, president of the East Irish Church Union, with whom he has been associated in the attempt to bring about a union of the two churches. They conferred for twenty minutes, after which Lord Halifax remained for more in the sick room.

LYNN QUAKER'S ARREST IS ORDERED

A warrant charging Elwood B. Bacon, missing trustee of the Lynn Home, with larceny was sworn out in Lynn Court today and hunt for him was begun in Albany, N. Y., following a "tip" that he was seen there yesterday.

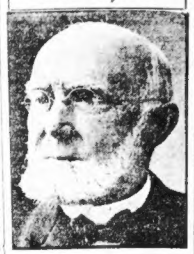
The warrant specifically charges Police with the larceny of $10,000 from the Lynn Home for Children, although the police declare his defalcations will soar well above $75,000.

Auditors on the books of the Friends' Helicious Society today doubled Bacon's shortage from $20,000 to $40,000, with the work only partly finished.

A shortage of more than $30,000 has been reported as having been found in Bacon's accounts with the Lynn Home for Children, of which he is treasurer.

Auditors were still working today on the books of the Howard F. Poole Co., wholesale hardware, of which Bacon has been treasurer for 24 years.

Made Corsets



David H. Fanning manufactured hoopskirts, then corsets and lived to see the flapper scorning his art. He died today.

VACATION KILLS CORSET MAN

Worcester, Jan. 21.—David Hale Fanning, 93-year-old founder of the Royal Worcester Corset Company, has taken his first and last vacation from business.

The venerable merchant sold out his holdings in the great business he had built up and retired last Tuesday. He was found dead in his bed today.

The millionaire's climb to fortune out Horatio Alger. At the age of sixteen he ran away from his home in Jewett City, Ct., and started a store in Groton.

Nearly seventy years ago he started in business for himself, and incidentally incurred the only romance that touched his bachelor life. He and a young woman built a small shack where they manufactured hoopskirts.

The hoopskirts went out and the young woman went out of Fanning's life.

He started a corset company and it grew into the $2,000,000 company of which he was the active head until Tuesday.

Then he sold out his million dollar holdings to a syndicate of New York, Boston and Worcester financiers.

The sudden surcease from a lifetime of labor proved too great a change for the old man and he died after two days of vacation.

Fanning never forgot the town of his birth. He gave Jewett City a park and a monument to soldiers and sailors. He always contributed liberally to the Hahnemann Hospital here.

the project; to Senator Hiram Johnson, who has devoted years of hard work to reconciling conflicting interests, and to Secretary Hoover, whose technical knowledge and personal influence have been of the highest value, their whole country is deeply indebted.

THE COLORADO RIVER, put to work and used, will add hundreds of millions yearly to the wealth of the United States.

It will supply several Western States with more than a million horse-power, and irrigation sufficient to provide food for tens of millions of human beings.

THE REAL WEALTH and future happiness of this country will gain from this single project of science and constructive statesmanship more benefit than it would from finding gold mines unlimited.

ANNA LOUISE STRONG, with a few other ladies and gentlemen, in sunny California, advocates a Soviet government like that of Russia, even suggesting violent revolution and "confiscation of property," if necessary.

There is danger in such propaganda out here in Los Angeles. As soon as a "comrade" has finished his speech, if he has any money, some strong armed real estate man captures him, sells him a lot "only two minutes from the centre of the city by telescope," and takes all the Bolshevism out of him.

There will be little room for Bolshevism in the United States until all the lots are sold, from Portland, Me., to San Diego, Cal., from Seattle to Miami. And that's a long way off—18 lots to the acre, hundreds of millions of acres.

NEW LIFE insurance taken by Americans in 1925 totalled fifteen thousand six hundred millions of dollars, beating all records.

That is important business news. And you need not be in a hurry to extend your mortgage. INTEREST RATES WILL BE LOWER.

Occasional charging of higher rates for stock gambling purposes and raising the rediscount Federal reserve here and there are not important.

But for the income tax, money might again be borrowed at the comfortable old rate of 4 per cent. But the lender feels bound to make the borrower pay what Uncle Sam demands, which means the difference between 4 per cent. and 5 per cent.

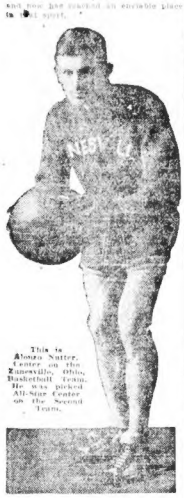
Athletic Star Heals Rupture by New Modern Discovery!

Invention That Healed Basketball Player Offered on Free Trial

Alonzo Nutter, chosen as one of the best ten players in the entire State of Ohio, has been cured of rupture. Only in spite of the cutting, burning, tearing and straining that is necessary if an athlete is to excel in this sport.

For years "Lonzo," as he is known to basketball fans, was ruptured. Various kinds of trusses and appliances were tried without success. Finally he was persuaded to wear this new invention and after a time his rupture healed. He continued his games of basketball with phenomenal success and now has marked an enviable place in the sport.



This is Alonzo Nutter, Center on the Zanesville, Ohio, Basketball Team. He was picked All-State Center on the Second Team.

He has discarded the new discovery and has no recurrence of his rupture. This is a wonderful record but it has been duplicated many times by other sufferers who have been benefited by this new way.

Planned so that it can be washed fully and set right and for that it does not bake, harden, irritate, chafe and cannot be noticed even beneath the closest clothing, this new way to end rupture is truly wonderful.

There never is any danger of the rupture coming down, no more steel, leather or cloth straps, no more irritating, annoying pads. Instead of rupture worry, there is a comfortable sense of security and freedom that many times is worth more than the price of the invention. Many who have worn trusses for years say they cannot understand how they ever endured the torture of trusses.

Thousands of rupture sufferers have written us telling of the blessed relief and gratitude. Many of them have declared it actually has restored their self-confidence and made them feel like new men at last.

We want you to try this invention and we will let you use it freely. Write today for free trial offer. Do not delay. Learn how to control rupture in such a manner that you can instantly feel the difference in an athletic contest. In such moments when it will usually compel most trusses to let go, this invention will hold you in comfort and security. Don't wait. Write today.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys With Jad Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, nervous spells, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize acids so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which every body should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

A penny sale will be held by the court in Lyceum Hall tonight.

ALVITI HEARING NEXT TUESDAY

Catedonia Alviti, North End photographer, was before Judge Murray on a continuance today on the charge of selling Florida land securities for Charles Ponzi without a license, though Atty. William H. Lewis, counsel for Alviti, informed the court that the Government could show no such sale to Alviti. Asst. Atty.-Gen. J. H. Devlin, prosecuting the case for the Government, asked a further continuance to Jan. 26, saying that State Officer Joseph Ferrari, an important witness, is today testifying at a murder trial in Plymouth county.

Atty. Lewis agreed to the continuance. He said, however, that the delay was keeping Alviti from his business in Florida and that he is eager to have the case over.

Judge Murray suggested that the charge is a minor one, and Atty. Lewis said: "Yes, your honor, the charge is selling securities without a license and the Government cannot show that Alviti sold any such securities."

SLAY GUARD IN $6,000 HOLDUP

Hackensack, N. J., Jan. 21 (A.P.).—Four thugs today held up the offices of the American Railway Express Company, shot Frank Brennan, a messenger, and escaped with about $6,000 in cash.

Brennan died in the Hackensack Hospital half an hour after the holdup. The greater part of the money taken by the robbers was consigned to a Hackensack bank.

Theodore Palmer, office cashier, escaped fatal gunfire only through the shielding of a receiver in the hands of one of the bandit men. Brennan was shot in the back.

President George W. Mitton of the Jordan Marsh Company was presented a watch at a complimentary dinner attended by 350 persons last night. Among those to felicitate Mr. Mitton was President Coolidge.

'JUNK AND JINX' MAN ENDS DAY IN HOSPITAL

First Believed Slain, Then Found Alive, He's Finally Hurt in Runaway

Brockton, Jan. 21.—William De Kovner ended the most exciting 24 hours of his junk-collecting career in a bed at the Goddard Hospital here today. And in the next bed was Inspector Schwartz of the local police department.

Yesterday De Kovner started for Bridgewater with his horse and junk wagon. He did not return last night. His fearful family reported his "disappearance" to the police and said they feared murder.

De Kovner, they said, had had argument with a Bridgewater "bad man" a few days ago, and the "bad man," they said, had threatened to kill him.

Inspector Schwartz went to Bridgewater and present into service for the hunt Chief Moore and the three patrolmen who supervise the Bridgewater force. On their way to the house of the suspect they passed De Kovner's horse and wagon in front of the home of Frank Annunzia. De Kovner was inside unharmed, and had simply stayed for the night with his friend.

Schwartz drove back to Brockton with him on the junk wagon. At Grove and Lawrence street, the horse thought he would end the hectic day with a runaway and did just that. Schwartz was hurled from the wagon and suffered a broken leg. De Kovner struck on his head and suffered a possible fracture of the skull. Both were taken to the Goddard Hospital.

TWO BOYS ARE SENT TO PRISON FOR EIGHT YEARS

Two boys in their teens went to State Prison for eight years today for breaking and entering a Colonial gasoline filling station on the Fellsway, Somerville, and stealing a quantity of oil, a bunch of keys and a punch.

They are John J. Costello, seventeen, of Beacham street, Charlestown, and Wallace F. McGilvary, eighteen, of Rogers avenue, Somerville. They were sentenced by Judge Flynn in Superior Court at East Cambridge, having previously pleaded guilty.

ASKS BENTON TO PROBE BOOST IN COAL PRICES

The attorney general will be required to make an investigation of recent increases in the price of coal in this State if an order introduced today in the Senate by Senator William J. Francis of Charlestown is passed.

In the order politicians claim to see renewal of the effort to sidetrack Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, who would ordinarily carry on such an investigation at the request of the Legislature.

Senator Francis' order provides for an investigation of retail coal prices and a report by the attorney-general not later than the second Wednesday in March.

JORDAN MARSH PRESIDENT IS HONORED

The testimonial dinner given to the president of Jordan Marsh Company, George W. Mitton, was attended by more than 350, at the Hotel Somerset.

This dinner is a fitting climax to the Diamond Jubilee celebrations in which all New England has taken so keen an interest. An elaborate souvenir program, carried out in the Jubilee colors, blue and silver, containing a drawing reproduced from a crayon portrait study of Mr. Mitton, was given to each guest. A special copy bound in dark blue leather and printed on sheepskin for the guest of honor.

During the banquet a thoroughly delightful entertainment was presented, which included numbers by several professionals and a "surprise" offering by members of the company's choral society.

SKILLFUL CAPTAIN.

Walter A. Hawkins, director, served as toastmaster. In his speech he paid a fine tribute to Mr. Mitton, stressing his innate friendliness, courtesy, and great ability.

"I would tell you that G. W. Mitton is a captain who is always on the bridge," said Mr. Hawkins, "his eyes ever on the barometer, always peering out through the fog and darkness into the future, taking his bearings and steering his course by the sun and stars of the most enlightened judgment.

"Mr. Mitton is not a so-called 'glad hand' man. He is a glad heart man. The trouble with so many 'glad hand' men is that they are just good actors.

"I can think at this moment of no greater evidence of Mr. Mitton's sense of justice than when some few years ago he gave the strictest instruction that nobody in our employ who had been with us for three years should be discharged without all the facts being laid before him for his own judgment.

"I can think of no stronger evidence of the sympathetic interest that he takes in our fellow workers than when he gave the strictest instruction that whole people are ill in spite of the fact that they receive their full salary. If such people need extra hospital service, specialists from the medical profession, if in need of an operation and are deferring it because they cannot afford it—that in all such cases Jordan Marsh Company shall assume the expense. We pay out a great many thousands of dollars in the course of a year for this work. He has, on a few occasions, asked us if we thought we had done enough.

COOLIDGE'S TRIBUTE.

A letter from President Calvin Coolidge was read by Richard H. Edwards, in which the President said:

"It is well that tributes should be paid to men like Mr. Mitton whose lives have been devoted not alone to building up successful institutions, but no less assiduously to the standards of honor and integrity in business. The good example of such men affects not only the community in which they live and work, but also reaches out into the general business fabric of the country."

Very appropriate remarks also were made by Rogers Hoyt, Thomas P. Lockney, George A. Hillstock presented, in behalf of the executives, a beautiful platinum watch.

REVIEWS OLD DAYS.

President G. W. Mitton responded with much feeling, and showed great appreciation of the honor paid him. His mind went back to the days of Eben Jordan, the founder, and of his father, E. A. Mitton. He attributed his own success in large measure to the example and inspiration of these men.

Mrs. G. W. Mitton was present to share the honors bestowed upon her husband.

Scott FURRIERS UNIQUE PAYMENT PLAN
REVOLUTIONIZES BUYING OF FURS!

WHY WE ARE DIFFERENT

Thousands of shrewd shoppers have taken advantage of our unique Payment Plan.

These models sketched from our stock

Our plan is very simple. You select your fur coat, make a small deposit, take your coat with you, and arrange for weekly or monthly payments to suit your convenience. We have no compulsory terms which may be inconvenient for you

YOUR TERMS ARE OURS!

Our system appeals to those who would not ordinarily purchase on partial payments, and it is a fact that very few of those who have opened charge accounts with us have ever bought on weekly payments elsewhere.

Private Offices for Charge Accounts

Your dealings with us will be absolutely in confidence. We positively do not refer to your friends or employer when opening an account with us.

Could Anything Be Fairer Than This?

Our unique payment plan is of particular importance at this time for you can take advantage of our special prices and have the added

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

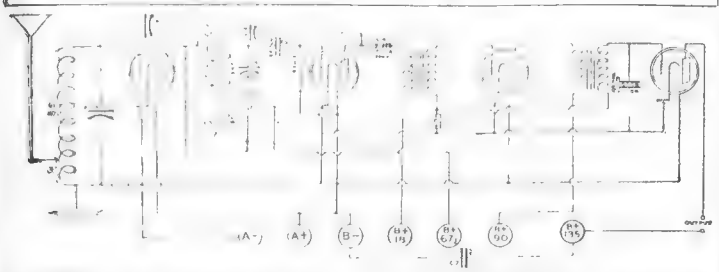
VOICING THE GREAT VALUES OF DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

SAMUEL CURTIS, JR., Radio Editor

WEEI puts on the air today, one of the longest programs in the history of that station. This continuous period of broadcasting will start at 1:00 P. M. and end at 11:00 P. M., a run of practically ten hours. Aside from the usual three hour New York program between 8:00 and 11:00 P. M., we know several features will be presented.

With International Radio Week only a few days off, radio fans everywhere should make up their minds to do all in their power to keep the air clear for long distance reception. Such electrical devices as Violet Ray machines, vibrating magnetic tree battery chargers and faulty motor commutators should not be used during the test hours.

UNUSUAL RESULTS WITH NEW 4 TUBE CIRCUIT



This circuit, although extremely simple, is capable of receiving broadcasting at long wavelengths with remarkable selectivity and volume. It is a regenerative circuit employing two stages of tuned radio frequency amplification, a detector tube and a two stage audio frequency amplifier. The antenna coupling coil is variable and is tuned by means of a .0005 M F variable condenser. The secondary coil is also variable and is tuned by means of a .0005 M F variable condenser. The primary coil is fixed and consists of seven turns of No. 22 D C C wire wound on a 3 inch tube. The secondary coil consists of fifty turns of No. 22 D C C wire wound on a 3 inch tube. The primary coil is placed about one inch from the secondary coil. The tickler coil consists of thirty turns of No. 22 D C C wire wound on a 3 inch tube. The tickler coil is placed about one inch from the secondary coil. The radio frequency transformers are of the iron core type and are designed to tune to any wavelength between 200 and 550 meters. The primary and secondary windings of each transformer consist of seven turns of No. 22 D C C wire wound on a 3 inch tube. The primary coil is placed about one inch from the secondary coil. The two radio frequency transformers are placed about four inches apart. The audio frequency transformers are of the iron core type and have a ratio of 3 to 1. The detector tube is a 201A type. The two radio frequency amplifier tubes are also 201A type. The two audio frequency amplifier tubes are 171A type. The filament current is supplied by a 6 volt storage battery. The plate current is supplied by a 90 volt dry cell B battery. The grid leak is a 2 megohm unit and the grid condenser is a .0005 M F variable condenser. The fixed condenser across the secondary coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the primary coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the antenna coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the tickler coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the audio frequency transformers is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the detector tube is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the radio frequency amplifier tubes is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the audio frequency amplifier tubes is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the filament current supply is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the plate current supply is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the grid leak is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the grid condenser is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the fifth turn of the secondary coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the ninth turn of the secondary coil is a .0005 M F unit. The fixed condenser across the wire, etc.

DX CONDITIONS LAST NIGHT

By "THE DOCTOR"

Poor conditions seem to continue. The atmospherics appears to be dead.

Boston stations when at all available, come through with no clarity whatever. It is very likely that the present unseasonable weather has a great deal to do with it.

Local stations must be depended upon for the time being.

Gilded Kisses

by BEATRICE BURTON

A Live Serial of Love and Temptation Right Here In Boston

READ THIS FIRST

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm

Mary Rose is secretary to the sales manager, and is in love with him, although he's going to marry DORIS HINIG, an heiress. Because of her feeling toward him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY

Flossie is engaged to SAM JESSUP, who is secretary to the head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER Mary Rose discovers that Flossie is carrying on a flirtation with Dexter, a married man. One day Mary Rose, to her horror, finds her in Dexter's arms When she scolds her about it, Flossie says it isn't her fault that men fall in love with her.

Doris Hinig becomes jealous of Mary Rose when she learns that Manners took her home with him to read aloud to his invalid mother. Finally he tells Mary Rose that he loves her, and how he and Doris drifted into an engagement long ago, that now means little to him

Flossie, also quarrels with Mary Rose, and to get even with her, tells Manners that Mary Rose is just stringing him along, and really loves Tom Fitzroy and intends to marry him One day while Mary Rose is taking Dexter's dictation, while Sam Jessup is up there, he finds Flossie with the files. MRS DEXTER bursts into the office and accuses her of breaking up her home

Mary Rose wonders what she's talking about, and then Mrs Dexter shows her Flossie's handkerchief and perfume bottle, which she has just found in her husband's

Treat Colds 2 Ways

With ONE Treatment

WHEN rubbed over throat and chest for all kinds of cold troubles Vicks VapoRub does two things at once:

(1) Its ingredients are vaporized by the body heat and inhaled direct to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing, and

(2) At the same time it warms and stimulates the skin like an old fashioned poultice "drawing out" the soreness and pain and thus aiding the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

This double action of Vicks usually relieves the most stubborn cold over night.

SPORT EDITORIAL

GEORGE SISLER, manager of the St. Louis Browns, has bought up the football publicity and professional baseball prospects of Ernie Nevers, Stanford all-around athlete, paying, it is said, a bonus of $7,500 for the collegian's signature to a fat contract.

This marks the entrance into the major leagues of the high-priced college star whose value as a box office attraction is gauged by a football reputation.

Nevers, they say, was a good college pitcher. So was Sisler when he starred on the diamond for the University of Michigan. But Sisler made his big league debut at a modest salary. So did Jim Thorpe, who was the first famous all-around athlete to crash into the big leagues.

Nevers will make close to $50,000 out of professional football this Winter. He will be expected to make good from the jump in St. Louis, and if he doesn't he will not revel far on his football reputation. It is doubtful if any young man who can clean up $50,000 in a few weeks will be content to act as a target for those rabid St. Louis fans all Summer for a paltry few thousand dollars.—SID MERCER.

DAILY SHORT STORY

BOBBY

By Louis Arthur Cunningham

MARGARET Hope could never understand what had separated her and the boom of unknown

She Rebelled.

Month Passed.

She left New York in October and it was a month before she heard from Bobby. She had written him a letter that was a cold, cutting thing. It was the week before Christmas vacation when she received his answer. Bobby was coming home. Instantly she waited for the postman, the bobby. She hated the books more than ever.

It was the week before Christmas vacation when she received his answer. Bobby was coming home. Instantly she waited for the postman, the bobby. She hated the books more than ever.

Not in School.

Bobby was not at the school when he arrived. The place, except for a dejected-looking cat and a deaf porter, was deserted. Practically all the students had left the previous day and the few who had remained were off skating on the lake behind the college.

Margaret's lips set in a rigid line as she shouted at the deaf porter in an effort to find out how she might make her way to the lake.

It was a long road, the deep snow was deep, her impatience was bitter altogether it was the worst journey Margaret had ever made.

The lake at last! She descended the sloping bank to the shore trying to separate her son from a number of boys who followed a puck in mad pursuit.

A little fellow was disconsolately nursing a broken skate on a bench beside the rink.

"Hope!" he questioned. "Why, he went skating with the Grey man. There they are!" He pointed up the lake.

Margaret's hungry eyes recognized the slight, graceful figure of her son.

Bobby was standing hand-in-hand with a tall man in a grey sweater and Margaret's heart beat extremely.

Bobby had spied her. The two skated up to where she stood, the man confused and repentant, Bobby along by the boy's pulling hand.

Bobby could not understand his mother's confusion or the almost silence of the meeting.

Christmas Joy.

"This is Mr. Grey, mother," the boy said proudly. "We all call him Grey man and he has been very good to me and—"

"And you, little boy," interrupted Margaret with no trace of sternness in her voice.

"It was no one's fault, Margaret," said George, looking like a guilty schoolboy. "I don't know what I would do without—"

"There is no reason why you should leave him. Won't you come and spend Christmas with us, your family?"

They were remarried the next day and Bobby, with his two loves united, was too happy to understand the fight, graceful figure of her son.

FOXY GRANDPA'S INTERESTING DAILY BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"DOGS are certainly faithful, aren't they, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby very seriously as he patted the head of Scotty, our beautiful collie.

"They are indeed," I answered. "There have been some dogs who were so faithful that their memories are still kept fresh."

"Tell me about one," said Bobby.

"I'll tell you about King John's dog," I said.

"Gelert was his name," I started, "and King John loved him very much. And the king had a daughter, whom he loved very dearly, a dog in the pack who was equal to, and burst into tears. But it was too late.

She was a lovely, beautiful girl —all that a princess should be. Her name was Princess Joan and everybody in the kingdom was devoted to this lovely young princess.

"Joan grew up to be a young woman, and when it was time for her to be married, she married the Prince of Wales, and there was a great royal wedding.

"Now what do you think King John gave his daughter Joan for a wedding gift?"

"A diamond ring!" answered Bobby.

"No, something he really loved and cherished. He gave her his splendid greyhound, Gelert."

"Wasn't that nice?" said Bobby. "That was a real present."

"Now Prince Llewelyn, Joans husband was a great hunter and when he came to know Gelert, the greyhound, he became very fond of him and especially when he discovered what a fine hunting dog he was. Gelert was always there when he blew his hunting horn and he never lost a scent.

"Prince Llewelyn and Joan were very happy together but they were much happier when a little son was born to them. And so was Gelert. The good dog used to sit by the cradle and wag his tail with delight as he heard the baby cooing.

"One morning the Prince blew his hunting horn and was very much surprised when Gelert didn't answer his call.

"All that day the Prince hunted and many times he wondered where the dog was—because there was not his favorite hound.

"Returning to the castle toward evening, the Prince went at once to the nursery where his baby was and there he saw the cradle upturned, the baby gone and crouched by the side of the cradle was Gelert. His jaws were dripping with blood.

"The Prince thought of courses the dog had attacked his son and in a blind fury drew his sword and killed Gelert.

"He raged and stormed, and finally he heard the cry of his baby. He hurried to the cradle, and there was the baby perfectly well and kicking up his little legs, and there beside him was the body of a dead wolf.

"Gelert, the brave dog, had fought for the young prince's life, had killed the wolf, and was there guarding his young charge.

"The poor Prince was frantic when he realized what he had done to.

"There was nothing he could do for the faithful dog but give him an honorable burial. So he buried him where he had once run down a stag to death. For hundreds of years people passing threw a stone on the grave of the fine dog, and today it is called 'Beth Gelert,' or the Grave of Gelert."

"He was a good dog," said Bunny, who had been listening intently; and that is a lot for him to say about a dog, especially a hunting dog.

A POOR COMPLEXION

People Notice It. Help Correct It with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel. There's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever nursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards' spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the tremendously effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

ONLY sometimes we can see things aright, some ebe beauty that lies all about; only sometimes truth's crystalline light comes to scatter the mists of our doubt. But those rare days are so fair that their memory dwells locked away in our innermost thought till the glory, reflected shines out and dispels all the darkness the hours may have brought. Only sometimes a glimpse is revealed of the splendor the artist would reach, of the beauty untouched in the Ultimate Field, too fair for men's hands or man's speech. But we clasp it so close that the Brightness remains and our efforts grow fairer thereby, till in spite of Earth's manifold sorrows and stains, some slight hint of the glimpse grows each day.

AMERICAN CAN BUSINESS IN MAINE GAINS

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Many people have been wondering why American Can stock has been rising so persistently during the past year. One reason can be found in greatly increased business, as evidenced, for example, by the fact that the output of the company's plant at Portland gained 35 per cent. in the 12 months just ended. Most of the plant's output is consumed right in the Pine Tree State.

New Offering

300,000 Shares

Northeastern Power Corporation

Common Stock

(No Par Value)

Transfer Agent: THE EQUITABLE TRUST CO. OF NEW YORK

Registrar: IRVING BANK-COLUMBIA TRUST CO., NEW YORK

Mr. H. E. Machold, President of the Corporation, summarizes as follows:

Organization: Northeastern Power Corporation was organized under the laws of the State of Maryland, on January 18, 1926, chiefly for the purpose of acquiring and holding the securities of public utility companies. This Corporation has offered to holders of the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York an opportunity to exchange their holdings for stock of Northeastern Power Corporation.

There are outstanding 677,921 shares of Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York. Holders of over 66⅔% of this stock already have accepted the offer to exchange.

In addition to the stock of Northeastern Power Corporation issued in exchange for the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York, there is to be issued for cash 1,000,000 shares (including this offering) of Common Stock to interests identified with the public utility industry. The principal subscribers for these shares are the following: F. L. CARLISLE & CO., INC.; EASTERN STATES POWER CORPORATION; ELECTRIC INVESTORS INC.; MOHAWK HUDSON POWER CORPORATION; SCHOELLKOPF, HUTTON & POMEROY, INC.; SCHOELLKOPF SECURITIES CORPORATION; NIAGARA SHARE CORPORATION; UNITED GAS IMPROVEMENT COMPANY. This offering constitutes part of the shares subscribed for by Eastern States Power Corporation and F. L. Carlisle & Co., Inc.

Capitalization:

Class A Stock, No Par Value	250,000 shs.	12,987 shs.*
Common Stock, No Par Value	5,000,000 shs.	2,080,842 shs.†

No Funded Debt

*Based upon an estimate that holders of 10% of the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York will elect to exchange on the basis of one-sixth of a share of Class A Stock and two shares of Common Stock of Northeastern Power Corporation for each share exchanged.

†Based upon an estimate that holders of 90% of the Common Stock of The Power Corporation of New York will elect to exchange on the basis of two and one-half shares of Common Stock of Northeastern Power Corporation for each share exchanged, and including the shares to be presently issued for cash, 575,000 additional shares have been subscribed for as part of the 1,000,000 shares above mentioned, and will be issued subject to the call of the Board of Directors.

In addition to the Power Corporation of New York Common Stock to be acquired by exchange, the Northeastern Power Corporation has subscribed for 173,333 Common Shares of the New England Power Association (a Massachusetts voluntary association) which has acquired the assets of the New England Company and other properties. This subscription, to be paid in instalments, will represent 33 1/3% of the Common Shares of the New England Power Association, constituting the largest single holding. Substantial subscriptions have also been made by interests connected with the International Paper Company and with Stone & Webster, Inc. The latter has placed a substantial portion of its subscription with the following: Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, the Turners Falls Power and Electric Company, United Electric Light Company of Springfield, the Hartford Electric Light Company, and the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company.

Super-Power Transmission System: The properties controlled by The Power Corporation of New York, Mohawk Hudson Power Corporation, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation and the New England Power Association are inter-connected by high tension transmission lines, thereby creating a super-power transmission system extending from Buffalo to Boston. The territory served is a highly developed industrial section which consumed over 6,000,000,000 K. W. H. of electrical energy during 1925. The rate of increase in the use of electricity in this territory is approximately 15% per annum.

The Power Corporation of New York and New England Power Association control 342,000 H. P. of electric generating capacity and 404,000 H. P. of undeveloped water powers which can be developed and transmitted to this market at a cost considerably less than power generated by steam and are, therefore, in a logical position to supply a large portion of the constantly increasing power demand.

Management: The management of the Corporation is in the hands of men with long and successful experience in the public utility field. The Directors of the Corporation are as follows: CHAS. S. BREWER, Chairman of the Board, Mohawk Hudson Power Corp.; ANSON W. BURCHARD, Vice-Chairman, General Electric Company; F. L. CARLISLE, Chairman of the Board; J. N. CARLISLE, President, The Power Corporation of New York; WILBUR L. CUMMINGS, Sullivan & Cromwell; W. K. DICK, President, The Dick Securities Corporation; R. K. FERGUSON, Secy. & Treas., F. L. Carlisle & Co., Inc.; H. I. HARRIMAN, President, New England Power Company; H. S. LEWIS, President, J. P. Lewis Company; H. E. MACHOLD, President; RANDALL MORGAN, Chairman, Executive and Finance Committee, United Gas Improvement Company; C. E. NORRIS, Vice-President, Eastern States Power Corporation; J. F. SCHOELLKOPF, JR., Vice-President, Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc.; PAUL A. SCHOELLKOPF, President, Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corp.; T. J. WALSH, E. H. Rollins & Sons; M. S. WILDER, Director, Northern New York Utilities, Inc.

We offer this stock for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us. Temporary certificates will be ready for delivery on or about February 1, 1926. All legal matters in connection with this issue of stock have been passed upon by Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, New York.

ANACONDA MILL SETS NEW OUTPUT RECORD

All previous production records of the rod and wire mill of the Anaconda Mining Company at Great Falls were smashed during December. The total output of coarse wire for the month was 5,198,349 pounds, upwards of 100,000 pounds more than any previous month.

CAST IRON PIPE IS PUT ON A $10 BASIS

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Common stock of the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, in which William C. Durant has extensive holdings, was placed today on an annual dividend basis of $10 a share, with declaration of four quarterly dividends of $2.50 a quarter.

DROP IN SILVER LAID TO CHINESE SELLING

New York, Jan. 21 (A.P.)—Decline in price of bar silver to 67 cents an ounce today, drop of about ¾ of a cent in the last two days, is attributed to steady selling of the metal by China, coupled with a similar movement in India where a lack of buying also is reported. Chinese operators were said to be short of Japanese yen and long of silver.

State Street Notes

FISK RUBBER declared dividend of $1.75 on first preferred, on account of accumulations, and initial dividend of $1.75 on convertible preferred, both payable May 1.

LANCASTER MILLS declared regular quarterly preferred dividend of $1.75 a share, payable Feb. 1.

OLD COLONY PLANNING $2,000,000 INCREASE

In the event of approval by shareholders of proposed increase in capital stock from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000, directors of the Old Colony Trust Company, recommend the offer of the 20,000 new shares to stockholders of record, February 9, at $150 a share.

Of the $3,000,000 new Old Colony Trust money, $2,000,000 will be applied against capital account and $1,000,00 against undivided profits or surplus. As of December 31, 1925, Old Colony Trust Company had $1,000,000 capital, $9,000,000 surplus and $3,600,893 undivided earnings.

Last sale of Old Colony Trust Company stock was at $325 a share. At this figure the forthcoming rights are worth about $29.

The last increase in capital of the Old Colony Trust Company was in February, 1925, from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 through the issuance of 30,000 shares at $15 a share. Rights were then worth $4.

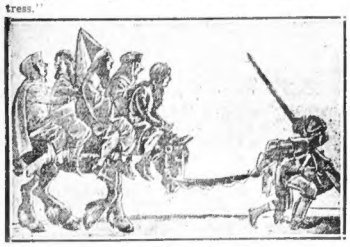
Make a Thing Ridiculous

Then You Can Easily Kill It.

Everybody knows about the chivalrous knights of old, so-called. In reality, they were most of the time getting drunk, stealing from miserable peasants, running away with each other's wives and daughters.

They were SUPPOSED to be interested IN serving unselfishly some lady, or rescuing "helpless damsels in distress."



Here's Ancient "Chivalry" Made Foolish.

This picture shows one of the chivalrous knights after a fine day's work, coming back with a full load of rescued damsels on his horse.

The picture should have been printed before the days of Cervantes, who wrote his immortal work, "Don Quixote."

That one book, which, by the way you ought to read in English, if you can't read Spanish, knocked the old foolish ideas about chivalry on the head, once and for all.

Don Quixote, comic knight errant, riding on his windbroken [illegible] old horse, dashing against the wind-mill, thinking it to be a giant, and writing love-letters to his dull and fat "Dulphinia," unable to read or write, made chivalry ridiculous for all time.

Nothing kills like RIDICULE. Once get people laughing at a thing and its days are ended. That's why politicians are careful not to get a reputation for being funny.

The funny politician is funny to others, not to himself. He doesn't last long, or go far, being LAUGHED AT, he is not taken seriously.

Some day our present system of high financial civilization will be made ridiculous. When it is, it will also come slowly to an end. But that won't happen for a long time. There is nothing ridiculous about high finance now. It has POWER, and you can't easily make real power ridiculous.

"Great Telephone Mystery"

Or, "How Do They Get Away With It?" NOT a Moving Picture.

For the purpose of helping the subscriber to "get the most out of his telephone," as the local manager phrased it so happily, the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, one evening this week, staged a delightful series of playlets, in Brockton.

"Domestic sketches and clever comedy which centred about the telephone," we read in the Enterprise, "with telephone girls and telephone boys as the actors, added much to the display."

The audience was shown:

1—What happens when husband and wife debate as to who shall answer the telephone.

2—How toll calls are made.

3—What happens when a "person to person" call is put through, and the person wanted is not there.

One of the young gentlemen of the Brockton exchange made a hit as the leading man. His portrayal of the husband who blames the telephone service when he forgets to call his wife, and of the ardent swain who makes dates over the telephone, in his excitement calling for the wrong number, "won both laughter and applause."

A good show, beyond any question, but capable of improvement before it goes out on the big time. We feel that we could turn the attraction into a "wow," and we never studied under George P. Baker for so much as ten minutes.

How about a scene showing the cruel father, Old Man American Tel. & Tel., grabbing 4½ per cent. of the New England's GROSS annual income, and then coming back for his regular 8 per cent. dividend, on a majority of its million shares?

And do they stage "afterpieces," any more?

A nice little afterpiece, maybe, showing the Telephone Lawyer as ring master and a flock of trained Public Utilities Commissioners [name your own State; nothing personal], lying down and rolling over, at the word of command?

There are possibilities in this telephone drama, but NO ONE can improve upon the title suggested by the Brockton manager: "How to GET THE MOST Out of the Telephone."

The man's a genius.

Line forms on the left. Don't crowd!

Let's Nail This Lie

The Metropolitan Theatre, a recent brilliant addition to the roster of local amusement places, has suffered from a secret and baseless attack of malice.

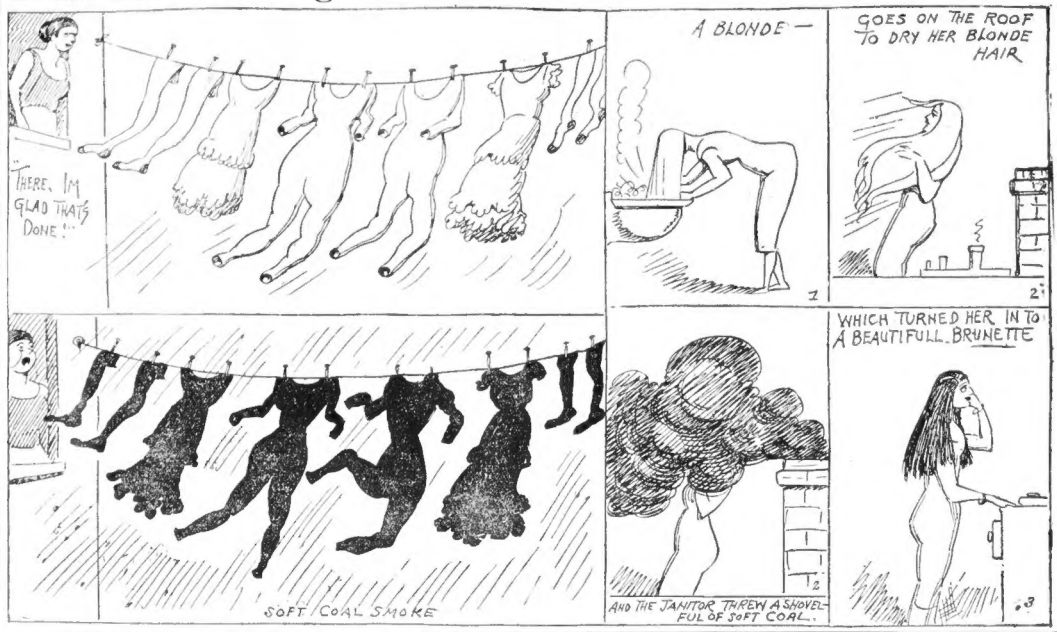
The assault comes in the form of sinister reports that this great new edifice, which had been constructed along the most modern scientific lines, is structurally unsafe.

By whisper and innuendo this totally unfounded tale has been widely circulated. The Metropolitan management has offered $10,000 to any person who can track this wretched, venomous slander to its source.

Every Boston citizen who has regard for the welfare and reputation of his city will aid in this work by any means available.

In the Soft Coal Fog

By T. E. Powers



SCIENCE EXHIBITING WONDERS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Is there, by possibility, something just a little solid mingled in the astonishing and startling announcements that follow so rapidly, crowding on one another's heels, from the centres of advanced science? Can it be that some of our Ph. D's are driving a trifle recklessly in the whirling air that blows over the new concrete road which seems to run straight into the heart of nature's greatest mysteries? If so, the function of philosophy is to save us from rash and premature discovery and revolution.

In two successive days reading we notice is reflected with equal intensity on both sides as far as it can [illegible] that the Einstein theory has been upset and his Einstein theory has been confirmed. Obviously, the public does not [illegible] that so far as its affairs and the interests of people about it are concerned it makes not the slightest difference whether the Einstein theory is right or wrong. We can [illegible] assert, as soon as it will find their first [illegible] publication, otherwise than through the productions of "space-time" researchers.

Contradictory Views

In the same tidbum during which readers, just awakening to the importance of science, are confronted with contradictory views about the Einstein theory, they are shown marvel upon marvel, brought from other fields, domestic, those scientists who compound [illegible] vegetation, and appeals to the imagination when their work is perfected by others, seem to be not averse to exhibiting occasional "sensations" to person. They are forced to recognize on each that a thing may be sensational but be genius it is, or appears to be true.

A recent example of commonplace sensational information by "official science" comes through the American Association meeting, from the director of modern astronomy, Mount Wilson. It relates to the great star Sirius and its strange companion, which is 800,000 to 1 to seen, except with very large telescopes, while Sirius itself outshines to the naked eye every other star in the whole sky. Upon a theorem based it has been calculated that the little star circulating around Sirius in a period of about half a century is made of almost unbelievable density, a density which Dr. St. John himself calls "terrific." It is 21,000 times as dense as water. A single cubic inch of it would weigh about a ton. The weight of a finger ring of that marvellous star-stuff would drag its wearer to the ground. Yet, according to Dr. St. John, this amazing star is neither solid nor liquid; it is a ball of gas. A gas 2,000 times as dense as solid platinum!

Its gravitational strength is equally tremendous. It drags its huge companion about so much that the staggering motions revealed the presence of the powerful little monster before any telescope had detected it. It is, in fact, an age-stricken dwarf. It has gradually contracted to that terrific density. Says Dr. St. John:

"We are able to account for that density on what we now know of stars. Similar densities exist in the centers of other stars. The heart of a star has a temperature in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 degrees. At this heat atoms are stripped of their rings of electrons and jammed together. Ordinarily the nucleus of an atom is surrounded by ring after ring of electrons. The outer rings of electrons protect the atoms from close contact with one another.

Great Heat

"The system of electrons which composes the ordinary atom has a diameter 100,000 times as great as the nucleus. This great heat apparently disorganizes the atom. The nucleus is stripped of all or nearly all of its electrons. When so atoms may be crowded into the space which was formerly occupied by a single atom. In these ways tremendous densities can be achieved in the stars."

It must be recalled with reference to this theory of the condensation of very old stars, that the electronic hypothesis now universally assumes that the nucleus of an atom contains practically all the mass of the atom, so that it loses very little by the supposed stripping off of its electrons.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

—By MARCELINE D'ALROY—

ON "LOVE OF LIFE"

SOME PEOPLE THINK
VERY LITTLE OF LIFE,
OTHERS think A LOT
About it and
Yet don't know
What to do.
SOME people think life
Is a HARD MASTER
And take it hard,
SERIOUSLY.
(See some Englishmen,
For instance).
SOME people think life is
Like a PRETTY MISTRESS:
THEY don't take it

Seriously, but they accept
Its favors graciously.
(See some FRENCHMEN,
For example).
SOME people think LIFE
Is what YOU MAKE IT.
Others think life is
What you FAKE IT.
(See the U. S. A. men for that.
They know about both).
The STRANGE PART is that
FEW men have great
Respect for LIFE or
For the LADIES, and YET so
MANY men manage TO LOVE—
BOTH.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

This business of promoting our own petty malice and egotism under the pretext that we are "serving God," is a greater sacrilege, in my opinion, than taking the Lord's name in vain.

American life today is seething with such demonstrations. "In the name of God" we pass laws prohibiting the teachings of subjects which puzzle, frighten or confuse us. In the name of God we search people's houses, curtail liberties and inflict endless indignities. The following instance is typical:

Recently a woman was arrested in an Eastern State because she did her washing on Sunday. This act was part of a wholesale campaign to that city to "keep Sunday holy."

Had such an act been instigated by the Republican or Democratic administration, the whole country would have been up in arms. Had the Socialists attempted any such outrage, the perpetrators would doubtless have been deported. Had the women's clubs of the city suggested such a stunt, they would have been held up to public ridicule.

But as soon as they dragged God's name into the business, things took on an entirely different complexion.

Flash, indeed, would be the man who would question the motives of such an exalted mission. So they arrested the washer woman and we pasted more laurels on ourselves as a Christian nation.

Now I'm as keen on our being a Christian nation as much as any other citizen. I'm a church member and I'm doing my best for law and order. But I do loudly protest that such acts have nothing whatever to do with Christianity, nor do they add luster to our name as an intelligent community.

Most of us know very little about God but we want to play safe. We're not quite sure what's right or what's wrong, but we don't want to queer ourselves. And we're frightfully concerned lest our Bosses and Bankers and fussy Friends get the idea that we're standing for lawlessness and disorder.

So, although most of us are unable to see what's wrong with washing a shirt on Sunday, we keep our thoughts to ourselves when they catch Mary Jane in suds.

That's why they put it over on us.

And since that's the way we run 'em, I suppose we deserve all that's coming to us. Which, judging from present indications will be a plenty.

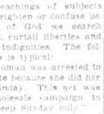
A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

To a man, the end of a romance is just an episode—to a woman, it is an epitaph.

* * *

The average man seems to think that a few assiduities are only the customary pay-ment he deserves for boring a girl with his com-pany all evening.



Helen Rowland

The price of clothes has gone up, of course, but even that doesn't seem any vital reason why a girl might pay a hundred dollars for a dress containing ten dollars' worth of gumpoints and ninety dollars' worth of imagination.

* * *

A man's notion of an ideal wife is a nice, comfortable woman to whom he can turn for protection when he is beginning to tire of a flirtation—and for consolation, after it is over.

* * *

Most of a man's life is spent in praying for rain—and then wishing it would clear off; pursuing a woman—and then trying to get past her; rushing into a love-affair and then trying to break out of it.

* * *

An old-fashioned man is one who remembers how he used to want to kiss the nape of a girl's neck, where the hair waved up from it, in those fascinating little tendrils.

* * *

A man is not completely married until the pocket in which he once carried his flask is filled with receipted bills, shopping lists, and pepsin tablets.

* * *

Human nature is what fills a woman with righteous indignation, when she reads in some "heartless vamp" trying to rob her of the man she stole from another woman.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

In spite of the cold weather, lots of people are moving from the city into the suburbs. It's just as easy to miss trains in the Winter as it is in the Summer.

The real estate men always want to rent you a house that's only "a stone's throw from the depot," but who wants to throw rocks at a station?

One guy lived such a long way from the depot that the only way he could save his shoes was to carry them under his arm.

Corn peators are cheaper than leather.

No matter how much skin you wear off your feet, nature always grows new soles on them.

Of course, he could have taken an automobile to the station, but taxicabs are more expensive than chiropodists.

Some houses are so cold in January that you have to put alcohol in your bedroom slippers to keep your feet from freezing.

One guy had a Winter-front installed on his night shirt.

But it's nice to live in the country, where you don't have to open the dumb-waiter door to let a little fresh air in the house.

BOOKS SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is no writer of general public matter that is not often asked the question as to what books are suitable for children of sixteen years of age and under.

The Bureau of Education of the Interior Department of our government has issued a list which may be of use to some people.

The list does not contain all of the books that children should read before they are sixteen, but provides opportunity for boys and girls to spend their leisure time at home in delightful company.

The titles of the books are as follows:

"Little Women," by Louisa May Alcott.
"Robinson Crusoe," by Daniel Defoe.
"Tanglewood Tales," by Nathaniel Hawthorne.
"Uncle Remus," by Joel Chandler Harris.
Andersen's Fairy Tales.
"Jungle Book," by Rudyard Kipling.
"Alice in Wonderland," by Lewis Carroll.
"Treasure Island," by Robert Louis Stevenson.
"Just So Stories," by Rudyard Kipling.
"Heidi," by Johana Spyri.
"Arabian Nights."
"Adventures of Odysseus," by Padriac P. Colum.
"Oregon Trail," by Francis Parkman.
"Hans Brinker," by Mary Mapes Dodge.
"Tom Sawyer," by Mark Twain.
"The Swiss Family Robinson," by Johann David Wyss.
"Merry Adventures of Robin Hood," by Howard Pyle.
"Captain Courageous," by Rudyard Kipling.
"Boy's King Arthur," by Sir Thomas Mallory.
"Ivanhoe," by Sir Walter Scott.
Aesop's Fables.
"Water Babies," by Charles Kingsley.
"Child's Garden of Verse," by Robert Louis Stevenson.
"Master Skylark," by John Bennett.
"Little Men," by Louisa M. Alcott.
"The Little Lame Prince," by Dinah Craig Mulock.
"Gulliver's Travels," by Jonathan Swift.
"Boy's Life of Abraham Lincoln," by Helen Nicolay.
"The Story of a Bad Boy," by Thomas Bailey Aldrich.
"Huckleberry Finn," by Mark Twain.
"The Prince and the Pauper," by Mark Twain.
Grimm's Fairy Tales.
"Story of Mr. Doolittle," by Hugh Lofting.
"Wonderful Adventures of Nils," by Selma Lagerlof.
"Joan of Arc," by L. M. Boutet de Monvel.
"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by Kate Douglas Wiggin.
"Man Without a Country," by Edward Everett Hale.
"Men of Iron," by Howard Pyle.
"Understood Betsy," by Dorothy Canfield.
"Dog of Flanders," by Ouida.

WHY THINK AND TALK ABOUT GROWING OLD?

Why thing so much about the time to grow old?

You compare yourself with men you know to be a few years older—men who walk slowly, think slowly, seldom smile and take little interest in anything beyond their easy chair.

The thought intrudes that soon you will be like them.

And you certainly will get there soon enough if you think so.

Why should the matter of years be considered so seriously by you if you feel well and strong?

In your actions, your views of life, the amount of joy in your heart and the vigor of your muscles, you may be twenty years younger than the man you have in mind when you reach their age.
